Huerta Accepts Mediation Proposal

Brigadier-General Funston and the United States transport Kilpatrick, which has just arrived at Vera Cruz. Funston and the regulars will take the place of the jackies and marines in the occupation of the Mexican seaport.

HUERTA AGREES TO "PRINCIPLE OF MEDIATION"

MINISTRY OF FOREIGN RELATIONS, Mexico City, April 28—

To International News Service, New York---In principle I accept with pleasure the friendly mediation to which you refer in your message. (Signed) LOPEZ PORTILLO Y ROJAS.

SEVEN NATIONS IN MEDIATION PLAN

MEXICO CITY, April 28.—Huerta accepts mediation proposal of Chili, Argentina and Brazil, acting in conjunction with France, Englad and Spain. The six are to select a seventh country as umpire.

A dispatch from Vera Cruz today quotes Huerta as declaring:

I WILL NOT RESIGN. I WILL TAKE TO THE MOUTAINS WITH MY MEN AND MY CABINET. AND I WILL FIGHT.

This statement is in line with his message to the International News Service, in which he declared that Mexico would defend its rights.

BULLETINS

WASHINGTON, April 28.—A new obstacle to effective mediation between the United States and Mexico presented itself today, when agents of the Constitutionalists intimated to the State Department that General Carranza and his followers will have to be consulted fully in regard to any settlement of the present trouble.

VERA CRUZ, April 28.—La Union, a Mexican newspaper, did not publish today by orders from Admiral Fletcher. Scurrilius attacks upon General Maas, formerly military commander of the coast city for Huerta, caused Fletcher to suspend this publication.

LAREDO, Tex., April 28.—Mexican Federals, who evacuated Nuevo Laredo, are dynamiting and burning every town that they pass. They blew up all the buildings at Sanchez. At Lajareta every building in the town was burned and the big railroad bridge blown up.

EL PASO MAYOR, IN HEARST WIRE, DENIES PANIC

El Paso, April 27.

W. R. Hearst, New York:

Sensation mongers have attempted to create the impression that citizens of El Paso are in a state of panic over the Mexican situation. This is untrue. The best of feeling exists among the people of El Paso, regardless of nationalities.

There are several thousand American soldiers here, and about ten thousand American-born Texans who know how to shoot and who are ready to defend their city. Their services will not be needed.

There is no scare. The business of the banks, factories and mercantile establishments is as usual. The business of the moving pictures, theatres and that of the police department is lighter than for some time.

One hundred and sixty Americans of Mexican descent have tendered their service. Please publish this in some of your many powerful newspapers to correct an erroneous impression created by others.

C. E. KELLY,
Mayor of El Paso.

MR. HEARST'S REPLY.

New York, April 28.

Hon. C. E. Kelly, Mayor of El Paso, Texas:

Dear Sir:

I am printing your dispatch stating that there is no disturbance or scare in El Paso in all of my papers. I do this with pleasure because you wish it, but I do not think it is necessary. No man with any sense believes that Texas or any town in Texas or any individual in Texas is afraid of anybody or anything. I know personally that if Texas were permitted, it could do single handed what the United States ought to do, and that is take Mexico and make it a part of this country.

I know that no Texan is afraid of Mexico and I do not think that any American outside of Washington and Wall street is afraid of Mexico. An American citizens with any historical knowledge know that Texas was mainly responsible for the acquisition by the United States of the best part of its territory and, if war comes, we all know that Texas will do its full share towards occupying and annexing the remainder of Mexico for the glory of our country and the good of humanity.

FUNSTON AND HIS ARMY NOW RULE VERA CRUZ

By A. M. JAMIESON.

Special Correspondent of the American with the Atlantic Fleet.

VERA CRUZ, April 28 (12 o'clock, noon)—Brigadier-General Frederick Funston, commander of the Fifth Infantry Brigade of the U. S. Army, landed from the transport Kilpatrick today and took immediate command of all future operations by armed U. S. forces in this district. The soldiers brought here from Galveston on the transport Kilpatrick, Meade, McClellan and Sumner are being landed from the Ward Line docks and are taking up positions assigned to them by General Funston. The bluejackets on shore will be withdrawn, but the marines will remain on shore to support the army.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Official notification that the troops under the command of General Funston have reached Vera Cruz was received at the War Department today in a message transmitted by Rear Admiral Badger.

General Funston was expected to hold a conference with Admiral Fletcher shortly after his arrival at Vera Cruz, and it was planned to make an inspection of the lines established by the marines about the city. The army will supersede he navy as soon as it can be arranged.

To Raise Flag Over Fortress.

The Navy Department has been notified that marines are making every effort to maintain sanitary conditions and administer the city in the best fashion. A tug has been dispatched to light houses along the coast with food and supplies.

Rear Admiral Fletcher has notified the Navy Department that he will raise the American flag over the fortress of

'ON TO MEXICO' NEW CARRANZA AND VILLA CRY

JOHN W. ROBERTS.

Special Correspondent of the American.

CHIHUAHUA, April 28.—General Venustiano Carranza and General Francisco Villa were in conference at Constitutionalist headquarters during the greater part of the night and are believed to have reached an amicable agreement to bury their petty differences and work together for the elimination of Huerta.

There was no sign of enmity between the two leaders when Villa arrived here last night. Carranza greeted him cordially, though not effusively, and General Herrera, who has been reported to be Carranza's choice for successor to Villa, also welcomed his commander heartily.

Constitutionalist officers refused to discuss the conference today, being more interested in attempting to get confirmation of reports that reached here of Federal troops being driven out of Saltillo and San Luis Potosi. They are said to have been occupied by Constitutionalists.

"On to Mexico City" was the word flashed here today after the conference between Villa and Carranza. It is believed that the advance southward will be begun within a few weeks.

TROOPS ORDERED INTO ULSTER.

STATE OF REBELLION IN COLORADO.

DENVER, Colo., April 28.—Governor Amnions today issued a proclamation declaring a state of rebellion exists in Colorado and calling upon the citizens of that State to rally in an effort to suppress the reign of lawlessness.

HUERTA UNCONDITIONALLY ACCEPTS PROPOSAL FOR AMERICAN-MEXICAN MEDIATION

BRITISH TERMINAL TAKEN BY FLETCHER

San Juan D'Ulloa in the harbor. Captain Chamberlain is holding the fortress with a force of marines from the North Dakota.

In the fortress-prison were found many political prisoners, some of whom had been there for years. One was Olivares, a relative of Madera. Another was Ignatius Calderon, historian. The fortress is of the oldest type, with underwater cells and dark dungeons where no ray of light penetrates.

The Navy Department today announced that when the soldiers are all landed Commander Stickney of the Prairie will remain as captain of the port, administering affairs along the waterfront and in the harbor. It was also announced that the work of clearing up the wreckage left by the bombardment of the city was well under way. Much of the contents of the wrecked Naval Academy is in condition to be used, and was given to the Charity Hospital.

British Terminal Seized

Rear Admiral Fletcher has seized the piers, yards and buildings of the Terminal Company, owned by Englishmen. He seized the place so as to be able to properly handle the property, but could not agree on a price. A high official had raised a British flag over the water station in the yards, but Admiral Fletcher seized the property under his rights under martial law.

W. Marcon, manager, complained to Rear Admiral Cradock of the British cruiser Essex and was advised to present the matter to the British Foreign Office.

One of the ludicrous incidents of the "peaceful possession" of Vera Cruz occurred when a patrol of marines encountered eight Federal soldiers. The Federals were technically "captured," but after a chat and luncheon with the marines, they were sent on their way.

United States Consul Canada at Vera Cruz has sent word that General Maas will shortly release eighty-five foreign refugees, mostly Americans, now held at Cordoba.

PLAN TO ASSEMBLE FLEET IN PACIFIC BY WAY OF CANAL

WASHINGTON, April 28.—In the near future, if conditions in Mexico will permit, the United States is going to send the entire Atlantic Fleet to the Pacific Coast. The assembling of the fleet in the Pacific will afford an exhibition of the naval strength of the United States and a demonstration of the usefulness of the Panama Canal.

In naval circles there is a strong opinion that in ordering the cruise to the Pacific, the administration would not be blind to the effect of such a move on public sentiment in Japan.

The news that the fleet would go to the Pacific coast came out with the return of Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, from the coast. He has spent much time making arrangements for increased facilities for coaling, docking and handling the fleet.

One of the important achievements of Mr. Roosevelt's trip was his arrangements for the completion of a wireless service from the tip of Alaska to the southern end of California.

"Big Money" Still Rules at Washington, Warns Lewis

By ALFRED HENRY LEWIS.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—It would be a good public thing if every American citizen could come once in four years to Washington and take a point blank look at his watchman on the walls of government. Also, at what rich ones are confabbing with with and controlling those same watchmen as they go their rounds.

These latter rich confabbers and controllers since they know how to have their public way, are more important than the watchmen. Take Mr. Carnegie as a pernicious example. Had there been no Mr. Carnegie there would have been no Root pro-English closed canal speech. The freedom of that important waterway would have remained unchallenged to our obstruse ships.

Make no mistake about Mr. Carnegie. He is afflicted to be sure, with a fashion of dotard garrulity and the peasant's love of display. None the less he is a wise, old, dangerous wolf for all his silvery muzzle. At this writing, he is laughing and congratulating himself over the ease with which he holds the policies of your foolish country.

REMEMBER HOMESTEAD.

Self-congratulation is a habit he has. Do not you remember how, when before a House committee, he wasted ten minutes of public time telling the manner in which he had outgeneraled John D. Rockefeller? He had outfoxed the old fox on Standard Oil, and he chirked and chortled over it like a pig over a nut. Just now he is chortling and chuckling, not over Mr. Rockefeller, but you.

Mr. Carnegie, calling himself a philanthropist and coup-keeper-in-chief for all the doves of peace, would have you believe that his past is clean, his present above reproach. He would have you forget the Homestead strike and the Winchesters of his hired Pinkertons. He declares in the face of proof that he wasn't guilty of rebates.

In these particulars Mr. Carnegie asks too much. There can come no forgetfulness of the blood spilled at Homestead. As to rebates, read the following and say what you'll believe.

Within a handful of years in an article by Mr. James Creelman, quoting the late A. J. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, printed in Pearson's magazine uses this plain statement.

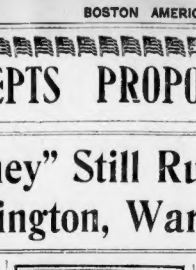
There was Andrew Carnegie, chiefest of the rebaters. His establishment shipped about 10,000,000 of steel and iron and other commodities over the Pennsylvania line each year. The rebates on that traffic alone ran up into great sums. Mr. Cassatt picked no favorites. He cut off Mr. Carnegie with the rest. Mr. Carnegie went to see Mr. Cassatt. He protested and pleaded in vain. The tall president of the Pennsylvania company could not be moved. Then Mr. Carnegie grew angry and threatened unless the Pennsylvania company continued to grant him secret rebates that he would construct a line from the West through Pittsburgh to the Atlantic seaboard that would destroy the primacy of the Pennsylvania system.

All this was said of Mr. Carnegie with the knowledge and authority of Mr. Cassatt. One of the New York dailies questioned Mr. Carnegie concerning those Cassatt-Creelman rebate charges.

HIS REBATE DENIAL.

Said the energetic daily:

"Mr. Carnegie was seen at the door to his stateroom on the Celtic a few minutes before the sailing of the ship.



ALFRED HENRY LEWIS

"Mr. Creelman says in Pearson's Magazine that Mr. Cassatt found that the greatest of rebaters, as far as his company was concerned, was not the Standard Oil Company, but Andrew Carnegie. Would you like to make a statement?"

"I don't know anything about it," said Mr. Carnegie, smiling nervously and shaking his head.

"Did Mr. Cassatt cut you off with the rest?"

"I haven't any statement to make."

"Did you go to see Mr. Cassatt and plead with him?"

"I don't know anything about the matter; I never heard of it."

"Is it true that you threatened to build a railroad from the West through Pittsburgh to the Atlantic that would destroy the primacy of the Pennsylvania system?"

Mr. Carnegie smiled again. "Really now, I haven't heard anything about this matter. It is new to me. I haven't anything to say. No, not a word about the rebate matter."

The reporter sought Mr. Cassatt and showed him Mr. Carnegie's interview.

"Well, what of it?" asked Mr. Cassatt after reading what Mr. Carnegie had said.

"Is the Pearson's Magazine article true?"

"Certainly it's true. Every word of it."

And now Mr. Carnegie throws up his pious hands in horror, if rebates are named in his pure presence.

"BIG MONEY IN SADDLE."

My knowledge of Washington covers more than twenty years, and while I may not pretend to unusual powers of discovery, I at least have had experience. Today, as twenty years ago, during the Cleveland regime, the country is being run by Wall Street. Now as then Big Money is in the saddle. Also Big Money means not only American money, but English money; and is as much the ally of Lord Cowdray and S. Pearson & Son, as it is of Mr. Carnegie, Mr. Morgan, Mr. Hill and Mr. House.

The rule of Big Money will mean defeat of the Democrats, just as it meant and brought about the Democratic downfall under Mr. Cleveland in 1894. It was the Cleveland subserviency to Big Money which swept years ago swept down a Democratic majority in House and Senate. It is the Wilson subserviency to Big Money which will sweep down a Democratic majority in House and Senate next Fall.

Not that Mr. Wilson, not that Mr. Bryan feel themselves politically threatened. Big money has carried them up into the political mountains and shown them the kingdoms of the world and the glories thereof. The Big Money 1916 program contemplates three parties in the field. There will be a Democratic candidate, a regular Republican candidate and a Progressive Republican candidate.

"BIG MONEY" TALKS.

For the regular Republican nomination Big Money talks Senator Borah in the West, Senator Root in the East. For the Progressive Republican candidates Big Money, like the rest of mankind, regards the restless Mr. Roosevelt as a certainty.

It is in the Democratic nomination that Mr. Bryan and Mr. Wilson are concerned, and Big Money has its own way of compelling them. With a final word of politics he himself will be the nominee.

Big Money is running our relations with Mexico. It is moving our army here and our navy there. It is pressing forward, or halting, or falling back. When the question is shall we save American lives or save money Big Money never hesitates. The murder of American men, the outrage of American women, must pass unpublished and the country become the jest of Europe and the world.

You are inclined to challenge the assertion. Take a backward glance. Wasn't the New Haven muddle in its last arrangement adjusted to suit the wish of Big Money? Wasn't the telephone troubles settled upon plans submitted by Big Money? Isn't the Union Pacific just now splitting up an improper $85,000,000 as an alleged dividend because Big Money insists?

As Irons still in the fire, Big Money counts the canal, the 5 per cent. freight rates and the peace of the Steel Trust from dissolution or disinvestment. Big Money looks forward in these affairs to a triangle of triumphs.

"Administration in Fog on Mexico"

From the Boston News Bureau.

That the negotiations looking to mediation in the Mexican troubles have aroused some degree of hope is undoubted. That they have caused more than this is not believed. If we leave the question to Argentina, Brazil and Chili it would probably improve our status with the South American republics.

At the moment, however, we have adopted the watchful waiting policy. There is apparently a distrust of the administration and its ability to deal with the Mexican situation. A shrewd observer of the outlook says that we are in a fog and cannot take an observation. Consequently we are forced to proceed under dead reckoning.

HOSKINS TELLS OF MEXICAN CRUELTY

Two Massachusetts men, Captain John K. Spicer of Lexington and Dr. Albert J. Hosking of Brimfield, who were among the refugees from Mexico City, have arrived safely in Vera Cruz, according to messages they sent relatives.

Five of the refugees were bruised and scarred by ill treatment and were suffering from the privations they had endured at the hands of Huerta's soldiers. They were Dr. Hoskins of Massachusetts, R. Chapman of San Francisco, G. S. Smith of Alabama, James Pinkton of Salt Lake City and C. N. Nader of Mississippi.

They had been arrested at Pachuca, State of Hidalgo, and were held incommunicado in the military barracks. They were beaten by orders of the Jefe politico and were deprived of food. Three of them are married and had families in Pachuca, but were not allowed to speak to them.

A mob gathered outside of the barracks and clamored for their blood. They were finally smuggled out of the prison to avoid the mob and were thrown into a cattle car. They lay covered with straw in the car until their arrival in Mexico City, where they were set free.

In Mexico City they were assailed by stones and bad eggs, thrown by anti-American mobs, but they finally found protection in the British consulate.

On reaching Vera Cruz Dr. Hopkins said: "Last Saturday four Americans and myself were arrested as spies. We were taken suddenly from our homes and given no opportunity to bid good-bye to our families. We were told we were to be executed as spies. They gave us a hunk of bread and water for our meals and applied nasty epithets to us.

"When we were taken from jail to be sent to Mexico City we were told we were going to our deaths. A crowd which followed and threatened us became so big that the guard was afraid to go on the train. Finally he smuggled us in a cattle car and told the crowd he was taking us out to be executed.

"In that way we escaped. When we arrived in Mexico City we were turned loose and again subjected to insults. We were egged and our faces spat at in a crowd which yelled 'Murder Gringoes.'"

Captain Spicer is a brother of Colonel William F. Spicer of No. 7 Pelham street, Lexington. He is a son of the late Commander William F. Spicer, U. S. N., formerly commandant of the Charlestown navy yard, and for the past twelve years has been in Mexico City as purchasing agent for the National Railway. He commanded a company of the First Tennessee Infantry during the Spanish-American war. Colonel Spicer believes his brother is now homeward bound on the Monterey.

Dr. Hosking has a sister and son in Brimfield. The son, Raymond, attends the New Wilbraham Academy. Dr. Hoskins has been in Mexico twelve years and was formerly a United States army surgeon.

URGE RETURN OF DIAZ AS PLAN TO PACIFY MEXICO

PARIS, April 28.—General Rafael Reyes, former President of the Republic of Colombia, today sent the following cablegram to President Wilson, Provisional President Huerta, Venustiano Carranza and Francisco Villa.

"The cause of America and humanity obliges me to indicate to you how urgent it is to have recourse to the undoubted moral authority of the great Porfirio Diaz, author of the progress realized by Mexico, for solving the crisis.

"I had proposed this last year at Havana and the principal chiefs of Mexico had accepted it before the assassination of President Madero.

"General Porfirio Diaz is strong both physically and intellectually. The hour has struck to save Mexico in this way."

General Reyes has been in communication with General Diaz at Monte Carlo, but whether the former Mexican President is aware of the sending of the telegram is not known.

BRYAN, WITHIN TWO WEEKS, WILLING REBELS SHOULD GET $500,000 IN AMMUNITION

QUIT CABINET,' HINT OF LEADERS IN PARTY

DEMOCRATIC SENATORS RISING AGAINST BRYAN

(From John W. Carberry's Washington dispatch to today's Boston Globe.)

Democratic members of the committee who have been taken into the confidence of the President have since Friday rather warmly expressed their dissatisfaction with the conciliatory demeanor of the administration with respect to the outrages against Americans which have been charged to Villa.

Secretary Bryan is charged with responsibility for the disinclination to press the Constitutionalists for reparation for the murder of Americans and the plunder of the Mexican estates owned by them. Today at the Capitol some of the Democratic Senators were discussing the advisability of making this a personal issue against Secretary Bryan because of their feeling that his course was injuring the administration throughout the country.

Several Senators at a conference proposed that the President be advised that unless the Secretary of State modified his attitude against the Constitutionalists, he be asked to retire from the Cabinet.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Secretary Bryan was willing, less than two weeks ago, that a Massachusetts concern should ship $500,000 worth of ammunition to Villa, the rebel leader, it was revealed today.

An agent of the company called at the State Department and reported that his concern had an order from General Villa for $500,000 worth of ammunition, which he said the company hesitated to fill.

The president of the company, Secretary Bryan was informed, did not wish to send the ammunition to Villa if there was any chance that it might eventually be used against American soldiers. If Mr. Bryan advised that the order be refused, the representative of the Massachusetts company said he would be glad to cancel it.

Secretary Bryan did not suggest that the ammunition be withheld, and when the Massachusetts man pressed him for a definite answer the Secretary of State said he believed in the sincerity of the Constitutionalists and he had no objection to supplying Villa with the rifle cartridges he wished.

The Massachusetts man was not satisfied, however, and after he had discussed the situation with some officers of the War Department he made a report that caused his company to cut down Villa's order to $00,000 worth.

Democratic members of the Foreign Relations Committee who have been taken into the confidence of the President have since Friday rather warmly expressed their dissatisfaction with the conciliatory demeanor of the administration with respect to the outrages against Americans which have been charged to Villa.

Several Senators at a conference proposed that the President be advised that unless the Secretary of State modified his attitude against the Constitutionalists, he be asked to retire from the Cabinet.

Democratic members of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations did not like the recent statement extolling the patriotism of the Constitutionalists issued by Secretary Daniels. They considered it imprudent to openly court the favor of the Constitutionalists when they were not entitled to such unmeasured consideration.

The Senators doubted that Secretary Daniels would have rushed into print without consulting the Secretary of State, so criticism of the Secretary of the Navy is being really aimed at Mr. Bryan.

"The situation at Tampico is unchanged," continued the report of Mayo, "and the Constitutionalist attack continues. There was heavy firing yesterday.

EUROPE HASTENS TO GET INTO PEACE DEAL

By HERBERT TEMPLE.
Special Correspondent of the American.

LONDON, April 28.—"Great Britain is encouraging and will further any proposals of mediation which would have the effect of bringing to an end the trouble in Mexico."

This official announcement of England's support of the Latin-American nations' mediation proffer was made in Parliament today by Sir Edward Grey, the foreign minister. He outlined the mediation proposal as explained to him by U. S. Ambassador Page, and at the same time announced that the six British warships now in Mexican waters had made arrangements to get British and foreign residents out of Mexico City, Vera Cruz and Tampico.

WANT PART IN PEACE.

Out of the offer of the "A. B. C." countries of South America, that is Argentina, Brazil and Chili, to mediate the trouble between the Mexican republic and the government of the United States has grown a great European diplomatic movement that aims to maintain European influence in Mexico and South America. Rapid exchanges of notes between the foreign offices of England, France and Germany today and during the last forty-eight hours have revealed the haste and eagerness with which these chancelleries are acting in their newly adopted policy.

Until the trio of South American powers co-operated in offering mediation of the growing quarrel between Mexico and President Wilson's government, the big powers of Europe had done nothing actively to back up the efforts of the United States to secure peace in Mexico. To a certain extent the haste of some of them were actuated by their previous recognition of General Huerta's regime, this preventing their support of President Wilson's demands for Huerta's elimination. But at any rate President Wilson's government secured no aid from Europe.

Now, however, the European powers are engaged in a desperate effort to retain their dominancy and prestige in Mexico and the South American continent by bringing the utmost pressure to bear upon General Huerta to have him accept the offer of mediation. Although the actual mediators would be Argentina, Brazil and Chili, the European nations would claim the glory of having forced peace in Mexico by having caused Huerta to accept mediation.

SOME GLORY FOR EUROPE.

The diplomatic envoys of Great Britain, Germany and France have been instructed by their home governments to exercise the most forceful language in pressing their views upon Huerta. Huerta is expected to yield to these overtures after a further period of delay and presentation of "Conditions."

The announcement of his recession probably will come first from the foreign office of some big European power. Thus the United States would see the culmination of its heartfelt wish for peace south of the Rio Grande; the continental powers of South America would have the satisfaction of solving the problem and the glory of the achievement would be claimed by European diplomacy.

FEDERALS CONTINUE OVERTURES TO TAMPICO REBELS, SAYS MAYO

WASHINGTON, April 28.—"Federal forces are continuing to make overtures to the Constitutionalists for a combination of forces against the United States."

In these words Admiral Mayo, in a dispatch to the Secretary of the Navy Daniels, received today, described the situation at Tampico.

"The situation at Tampico is unchanged," continued the report of Mayo, "and the Constitutionalist attack continues. There was heavy firing yesterday.

"The Spanish steamer Montevideo sailed yesterday for Vera Cruz with Spanish refugees aboard."

The Fitted Corset Gives Better Service
Because there is no Undue Strain at Any Point

The corset that is fitted improves a woman's figure. It supports and controls the weak muscles of the abdomen and back. It determines absolutely the success of the costume. It gives freedom and control at the same time. Sitting, standing, walking or dancing, it adapts itself to every movement of the body.

C/B Corsets
Fitted by the Filene Method Mean Control and Comfort

We have chosen C/B models to give control and corset ease to every type of figure.

The stout woman's C/B corset is made differently from the C/B designed for the slender figure. It is of stouter material, has just enough more bones to give the proper corset support.

The new C/B corsets are constructed to meet the most exacting dress requirement.

36,000 AMERICAN RIFLES AND 10,000,000 CARTRIDGES FOR THE REBELS

MASSACRE BY REBELS FEARED IN MEXICO

By LIUGI BARZINI.

Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

MEXICO CITY, April 28.—Following restoration of communication with the outside world, a profound and unexpected calm has succeeded the terrible excitement of the past few days. Mexico City has become normal, sceptical, and is almost without interest in the day's developments.

In this fugitive moment of internal peace the government liberated all political prisoners, who immediately began spreading the rumor that the landing of American marines had not taken place at all; that the whole thing was a colossal lie on the part of the government to deceive the people and to draw attention from the internal situation.

The enormous exaggerations of the local press, which has even reported the sinking of the Spanish cruiser Carlos V. during the American bombardment of Vera Cruz, played directly into the hands of the revolutionists and caused doubts to arise in regard to things which have really happened. The war against foreigners has been suddenly eclipsed, so far as public opinion is concerned, by the civil war. Meanwhile, American agents at El Paso have brought influence to bear on the revolutionists in the north, showing them that the action of the United States was friendly and pacific toward their interests.

Blockade Is Expected.

As was foreseen, the Americans do not intend to advance and they hold ports from which nobody can drive them. According to the view held here, they will hasten the economic suffocation of the country by means of a blockade and by inducing the rebels to continue their work will seek to fight Mexico with Mexicans.

When the embargo on arms was removed, revolutionists received from America 36,000 rifles; 10,000,000 cartridges and twenty-four guns. Meanwhile the government's munitions remain sequestered at Vera Cruz. There is a complete absence of trustworthy information regarding the situation in the north and the outcome of the negotiations between the government and the revolutionists, but it must be admitted that the situation there will probably resolve itself into the same as before the American landing. The government is only disposed to do battle at long range against any enemy.

Amidst the calm of the city, rumors of all kinds find circulation. There is much talk of plots and decisive and imminent events, but today the glorious sun is shining and optimism has returned.

Everybody is bent upon amusement. Nothing is impossible in this country of surprises, where public opinion can be swayed easily in any direction.

Fear Rebel Victories.

But if it is really true that the Americans are lending new support and giving greater vigor to the revolution, confiding to it an active part in the fight against the government, it is terrible to think what may happen if the rebel hordes should victoriously reach the big towns. Capital trains loaded with American refugees and other foreigners continue to leave, but even if all foreigners could be placed out of reach of danger the horrors which would descend upon Mexican citizens would not be less offensive to the conscience of civilization.

What limitation, what control, could Americans place upon the atrocities which would infallibly be committed? The Americans have carried on precisely the policy for which they blame Mexicans. In order to overthrow the President and establish a government favorable to their interests, they have not shrunk from the possibility of the massacre of hundreds of thousands of persons, the devastation of six States and material damage. In their politics the Mexicans at least risk their lives.

WAR CORRESPONDENT FINDS MOBS LOOTING

VERA CRUZ, April 28.—The London Daily News correspondent has cabled his paper as follows:

"Huerta's troops have seized all the railway lines with the exception of the Pan-American Railway from the Guatemalan frontier. Having dismissed all the regular employes, Huerta is operating the lines with his own engineers.

"Commandant Maas is reported to be in some strength at Soledad, about twenty-five miles outside of Vera Cruz, but so far he has not taken the offensive.

"Two train loads of refugees arrived here Monday afternoon. One contained 180 Americans and the other 25 Britishers. About as many Americans are on another train. These latter Americans are reported to have left Mexico City Monday morning.

"Refugees report there is a distinct anti-Huerta feeling growing in Mexico City. Agents of the Carranzistas are urging the people not to be driven into war with the United States on behalf of Huerta.

"Mobs are still engaged in spasmodic looting."

FLAGS FLY ON HUNDREDS OF BOSTON HOUSES

Old Glory is flying from hundreds of homes today, where the fires of patriotism burn to avenge Mexico's insults to the flag os our nation.

Following the AMERICAN'S suggestion that the Stars and Stripes should be flung to the breeze from every school, every public building, every home, the flag that never knew defeat is being displayed more widely than ever before the New England States today.

That the suggestion made by the AMERICAN meets with the patriotic approval of all is evidenced by the immediate response to its "Up with the Flag" appeal, and the numerous letters sent to this office telling of home flag-raisings.

HONORS PATRIOT DEAD.

One of the first of the hundreds to raise the flag in response to the AMERICAN'S appeal was Mrs. Amos J. Adams of No. 98 Main street, Charlestown. From the window of the Adams home Old Glory was unfurled by her five-year-old niece, Laura Smith.

This is what Mrs. Adams wrote the AMERICAN:

"We have raised the dear old Stars and Stripes in honor of our nation, as suggested by the AMERICAN, and in honor of my dear husband, Amos J. Adams, now serving on the U. S. torpedo boat destroyer Monaghan awaiting orders to go to the front, as well as for my dear brother, who gave his life for his country and Old Glory on board the U. S. S. Maine in Havana Harbor on January 14, 1898. I think every true citizen should fly the flag from his home."

Miss Addie S. Sawyer of No. 55 Pinckney street sends this touching letter: "In response to the AMERICAN'S flag appeal, I today observed the anniversary of my dear deceased mother's birth by arranging a beautiful vase of carnations, surrounded by little flags, which I carried to the M. E. church on Tremont street. It is the floor under which she was born, and which was so dear to her heart, as she was a member of the W. R. C. God bless our flag, and all who lift it up."

Helen Farr Tolman and William Murray Tolman of No. 22 Greenville street, Roxbury, write as follows: "We raised the flag at 8:55 this morning, just five minutes after we read the call in the AMERICAN. We had the honor to be the first in our street to do so. Out of our apartment windows we thrust the staff, and unfurled Old Glory to the breeze-laden April breeze. There it will float until every Mexican takes off his hat and salutes the flag his nation has insulted."

"SEVEN—WORLD ENLIST."

John Cummings, No. 65 Blue Hill avenue, Roxbury: "I am seven years old, and have my flag flying high out of my window. I wish I could go to Mexico and put my flag down there. I hope all the boys in Boston will put their flags out."

Edward A. Deignan, No. 14 Clifford street, Pawtucket, R. I.: "In response to the appeal of the AMERICAN I have raised our flag on a tall flagpole in my yard. I am located on a high hill, where Old Glory can be seen from a long distance."

A lady ninety-one years old and a relative of General Winfield Scott, No. 2 Merrill street, Cambridge: "I have raised flags from every window. One is a flag of the Civil War. Mexico was conquered in 1846, and should now be a part of the United States like Texas."

WAR AND FLAG DENOUNCED BY N. Y. SOCIALISTS

NEW YORK, April 28.—Amid the wild plaudits of 2,500 young radical Socialists, Fred D. Waren, editor of the Appeal to Reason, stood on the platform of Carnegie Hall, smashed his right fist into his left palm and shouted:

"The American flag is not worth fighting for.

"The white in the flag stands for the cowardice of the capitalist class.

"The red stands for the blood of the martyred dead, sacrificed upon the altar of Mammon.

"And the stars in their background of blue signify the limitless ambition of John D. Rockefeller and his gang of capitalists."

Continuing amid the staccato rattle of applause Warren cried:

"If I had my way I should spread upon the statute books a law that any President of the United States who declared war should be forced to lead every charge of the army in person and every member of Congress, who voted for war should be forced to shoulder a gun and march to the front. The same for every preacher who prayed for the success of our arms. And the same for every newspaper editor who urged the nation to war."

At this pandemonium broke loose. There were shouts of "Hearst, Hearst," all over the hall, with mingled cheers and hisses. One young woman in the third row leaped to her feet and screamed: "Tell Hearst to go to hell."

Warren continued in the same jet. for the Colorado mine disorders.

"No capitalist goes to war," he asstrain, denouncing John D. Rockefellerted. "Imagine John D., Jr., marching where the bullets fly to the tune of 'God Save Our Gold.' No chance.

"Young Rockefeller remains here, teaching the boys how to obtain mansions in the sky while he rakes in the gold of Mexico and the coal of Colorado."

The meeting was called for the double purpose of protesting against war with Mexico and the "War with the Capitalistic Mine Owners in Colorado."

The speakers included Morris Hillquit, Mrs. Laura G. Cannon, Charles Edward Russel and Algeron Lee, who presided.

Representatives of the Central Federated Union refused invitations to attend.

The speakers all declared that the proposed war in Mexico is a farce, and that a far more serious situation exists in Colorado. Workers were advised to refuse to go to war unless they marched to Colorado to help the striking miners gain their right to "Live as human beings."

Every mention of the name of Rockefeller, Jr., brought forth hisses and groans.

PUBLIC FUNERAL IS PLANNED FOR HERO HAGGERTY

Plans were completed today for a public funeral to honor Daniel A. Haggerty of Cambridge, the first American to fall at Vera Cruz in the conflict with Mexico.

Mayor Timothy W. Good of Cambridge, who originated the idea to give the first victim of a Mexican bullet during the present war crisis a soldier's burial, is planning to make the Haggerty funeral an impressive event and he has asked that all business places be closed while the funeral procession is passing through the streets.

According to latest advices received by the family, despite the efforts of Congressman Deitrick at Washington to have the body shipped North immediately, it is still lying on board a battleship at anchor outside of Vera Cruz. Secretary of Navy Daniels is urging in telegrams to send the body North on the first hospital ship, since the transports have not started back to the United States.

Cambridge City Hall will be draped in black during the funeral. Flags will be at half-staff. The body will be borne through the city's streets escorted by soldiers and sailors from the battleships then lying in the harbor and marines stationed at the Charlestown navy yard.

These arrangements were made when the family of Haggerty placed the funeral in the hands of the Regular Army and Navy Union, U. S. A., and the Tremont-ain Garrison. The members of the G. A. R. and the Spanish War Veterans will also follow the body to its burial.

FOREIGN PRESS IS AMAZED AT WILSON ACCEPTING MEDIATION FROM A. B. C. ALLIANCE

Here are types of the men the United States will fight if Mexico is invaded. To the left is a squad of Huerta's body guard of foot soldiers. In the centre is a company of rurales, the mounted police of Mexico, who are now a part of the regular army. To the right is a group of conscripts.

PHOTOS © BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE.

MEDIATION DENOUNCED BY REV. MR. TOWNSEND

War with Mexico is inevitable, just and right, according to the Rev. Luther T. Townsend, Civil War veteran and a man who has lived and preached in Mexico "with the Word of God in one hand a revolver in the other, as he himself says. Rev. Mr. Townsend was for many years a professor of theology at Boston University. He lived in Mexico many years.

The Rev. Mr. Townsend has aroused much discussion among the Methodist clergy of Boston by his attitude. He calls all attempts to deal with Huerta, Villa and Carranza like "coddling rattlesnakes," and denounces Secretary of State Bryan and urges that Mr. Bryan's place be given to Senator Lodge.

"VOICE OF THE ALMIGHTY."

Mr. Townsend declared his position in a remarkable address before the meeting of the Methodist ministers at No. 581 Boylston street. Urging the passage of resolutions favoring intervention, he said:

"War with Mexico is no accident. It is the voice of Almighty God calling upon the American people to end these atrocities and establish the elevation and emancipation of Mexico. I'm tired of hearing people repeat the words of General Sherman that 'war is hell.' War frequently is, and can be made to be in many instances, the restoration and salvation of a nation.

"War and its attendant horrors are bad enough, but the sacrifice of principle is the one thing that is worse than war. To allow an assassin to enter a neighbor's house, or to stand calmly by and witness an assault on a defenceless woman is both cowardly and criminal. There are times when war is necessary and justifiable and the present is one of them.

"All attempts to deal with Huerta, Carranza or Villa are like coddling rattlesnakes. If Secrtary Bryan whispers any more—if he has lamb's wool on the brain—then Senator Lodge must be made to succeed him as Secretary of State, for Lodge has the right policy. We cannot have dealings with any of the Mexican bandits.

MEDIATION MUST FAIL.

"I hope that Huerta, Carranza and Villa will combine against the United States. I hope that all attempts at mediation will fail—as fail they must. It is no time to exchange courtesies with Mexico. The proper thing to exchange with the Mexicans is bullets. Let President Wilson dry his tears and lift his hand. Let go the 'dogs of war' and then try and keep up with them."

TRANSCRIPT CALLS ON THE PRESIDENT TO ACT

(Editorial rom the Boston Transcript)

THE OFFER OF MEDIATION.

Having blundered into war, why should the President persist in making it a blundering war? Yet all his preparations are for a "little war." The merciful war is the mighty war. We should be in readiness to wage such a war the moment mediation fails. Why does the President persist in limiting his counsel to Secretary Bryan and John Lind? They have done enough mischief. In refusing to see or consult with any of the military officers of the government, the President seems to forget that he is the commander-in-chief of the army and navy. Their advices should at least be sought in such an hour. If the urgent recommendations of his Secretary of War are to be flouted and Secretary Bryan permitted to hamper the preparations, with the present situation why does not the President relieve Secretary Garrison and make Mr. Bryan Secretary of War in addition to his present duties as premier and Secretary of State? The Transcript desires to stand by the President in this crisis, but the refusal of the President to listen to those members of his Cabinet and officers of the army and navy whose duty it is to give him counsel is, we think, a proper subject for public protest. The militia of the nation should be on the border today and the entire army and navy mobilized where they can strike hard when the necessity arises. That is the humane thing, it is the wise thing to do. If the President will remember that he is the commander-in-chief of the army and navy he will no longer turn a deaf ear to those who are urging him, in the Cabinet and Congress, to face the facts and deal with them as facts. It is no time to rely on the friendly assurances of cutthroats and hired assassins, such as Villa and his whole outfit have shown themselves to be. Sooner would we see the government enter into an alliance with a successor of Jesse James, for at least that outlaw spared women, whom Villa has made the victims of the most brutal and hideous crimes that the annals of warfare can show in this or any other age.

rial comment on Huerta's reported acceptance:

"It is somewhat discounted by the tone of the message which Huerta has sent to the International News Service in reply to a question whether he accepted mediation. This cablegram seems to indicate that he will maintain his obduracy, an attitude which would be the less surprising in view of the circumstance that President Wilson's first condition still remains the elimination of Huerta himself.

"Huerta's acceptance of a general offer of mediation by South American nations near to Mexico in blood is one thing, but the official tender did not include Wilson's ultimatum as to Huerta's elimination which was given out later. Huerta is still to be heard from on that."

'WAITING MAKES U. S. JOKE,' GUILD HOLDS

"Never has the United States sunk so low in its relations with other countries. We are no longer respectable enough to be sated. We are the joke of the chancelleries of the world. We have touched the nadir of humiliation," declared former Governor Curtis Guild, in attacking "watchful waiting" before the Middlesex Club's annual Grant night.

"Our affairs with Mexico are still so chaotic that it is impossible to comment upon them freely without creating needless embarrassment to those who are at least seeking to remedy great erfors. We have touched the nadir of humiliation. Never in our history have we before been obliged to ask to accept gratefully the offers of any foreign nation to save civilization, to save the people of the United States from the results of the awful errors of a President of the United States, from the results of condoning by a President of the United States of the outrage of American women, of the murder of American men by a professional murderer and highwayman.

LONDON PRESS DOUBTS GENERAL HUERTA HAS AGREED TO MEDIATION

LONDON, April 28. — Although the Spanish Ambassador at Washington is reported as stating that he has received private novices from Mexico City that Huerta has accepted the offered mediation by Argentina, Brazil and Chile, no official confirmation has been received in London.

On the contrary, the London Daily Telegraph, which prints today Huerta's message to the International News Service, makes this important editorial comment on Huerta's reported acceptance:

"U. S. GUNS MUST TAKE MEXICO TO WIN PEACE," SAYS COPPER EXPERT

"If the United States wants peace in Mexico she will have to make and keep it at the end of the gun. Otherwise, constant trouble is sure to result," declared F. D. Kenew, an expert in metallurgy, who left the Mexican border April 18. He has for three years been assistant superintendent of the Cananea Copper mine in Sonora and at Cananea has been in the heart of the Constitutionalist territory. He added:

"Mexico will never be quiet until she is absolutely controlled by some stronger power. The Mexicans have got the habit of fighting and they resent seeing one of themselves in a position of authority.

"If the Mexicans ever agreed on a President they would not hold to him more than a month.

"They know how to fight better than they know anything else, and they have no idea of loyalty or patriotism. Huerta is the big man down there now only because he is a fighting man. They have no ability to control or help themselves. Most of them will have to be killed off and the rest held under strict control before the country will be at rest."

Kehew said that he believed Mexico would be easier to control than the Philippines have been.

"We have about 3,000 Mexicans working in our mines, and they have never done any injury to our property or life," he said. "Although they hate Americans, they would prefer to see one of them in power, rather than one of their own people. At first they would probably break away from control continually and go to the hills, but that would be overcome in time."

Five years at the least would be required to subdue the country, according to Mr. Kehew.

DECLARE MEDIATION OFFER HUERTA PLOT

BERLIN, April 28.—German opinion regards President Wilson's action in yielding to South American mediation proposals as a momentous event, presaging a revolutionary change in trans-atlantic political conditions. The Vossische Zeitung says:

"North America has held the upper hand heretofore of intervention in South American controversies, sometimes with threats, sometimes as a fatherly friend. The South American republics have now reversed the roles, and the United States yields to them. Things are thus placed on a new basis."

The Berliner Zeitung says:

"The relations between North and South America have been changed over night. The idea that Argentina, Brazil and Chile could have forced the United States to give way would have seemed ridiculous a few days ago. President Wilson's action has changed all this greatly to the advantage of South America."

Count Von Reventlow says the acceptance of mediation means an irrevocable change of political conditions, and adds:

"Concerted action by the South American republics against the Stars and Stripes is an event of the first historical importance."

LONDON, April 28.—Diplomats here view with amusement, mingled with not a little alarm, the offer of Argentina, Brazil and Chile, the A B C alliance, to act as mediators between the United States and Mexico. Were the situation not so serious, it would be regarded as a truly humorous one, to which, perhaps, only the pen of the late Sir W. S. Gilbert, poet and librettist, could do justice.

she was leaving her home. Coroner Semendinger, after an investigation, attributes death today to heart trouble. She was born, lived and died in the Colonial homstead of her father, Jacob Jones, which was built before the Revolution. Her grandfather on the maternal side was General Kowper, who was on General Washington's staff.

A diplomat discussing the latest development with the AMERICAN correspondent today said:

"You can say that the general opinion in diplomatic circles is that the United States is extremely ill advised even to consider an offer from such a quarter, let alone to agree seriously to it.

WALSH IN MESSAGE TO SENATE ATTACKS ADJUTANT GENERAL

Governor Walsh sent to the Senate this afternoon a long message setting forth the reasons why, in his opinion, Adjutant-General Pearson should "go," to make room for an Adjutant-General of the Governor's personal selection. The message was the State-House sensation of the year.

The Governor charged the Adjutant-General with inefficiency, quoting as his authority for the charge the representatives of the United States Army, the commanders of each of the two brigades of infantry, the Quartermaster-General, the Colonels and Lieutenant-Colonels of practically every regiment in the State.

Few at the State House could recall an occasion when such a message had come from the executive at a time when either branch was about to take a vote.

SUBMITS CHARGES.

The Governor's reason for the communication is said to have been the statements made in the House last week that the effort to get rid of a one year term for the Adjutant-General was merely a personal whim of the Governor, urged on by the officers of the militia. "What we want," Book of Chelsea said in the House, "are specific charges."

Governor Walsh made six chapters of his charges.

To the complaint that Adjutant-General Pearson is being "legislated out of office," their governor counters strongly with the declaration that Pearson "had himself legislated into office," the five-year bill providing that the then incumbent (Pearson) should have his term extended five years.

The Governor absolves his predecessor, Governor Foss, from all responsibility for continuing Pearson in office. Governor Walsh says in his message that he can find no report, no letter, no message, no recommendation, not a scrap of paper of any kind, in which former Governor Foss suggested the five-year tenure bill.

LOOK FOR CLOSE VOTE.

The Senate met, as usual, at 3 o'clock. The Adjutant-General bill was some distance down the calendar, Senators said that it might be two hours or more before the bill would be reached.

It was said at the opening hour that there had been a shift in the situation over night, and that the chances favored the Governor. None whose authority to speak for Governor Walsh is generally recognized, however, would claim a leeway of more than one or two votes. The concensus of opinion was that the nip-and-tuck situation described in the Sunday AMERICAN still continued.

YOUNG MORGAN DENIES HE IS TO BE MARRIED

Is Junius S. Morgan, son of J. P. Morgan, to marry Miss Louise Converse?

This was the one big topic in Boston society today. Young Morgan admitted that he knows Miss Converse. Mrs. Converse denied the engagement story, and said that when the proper time came a statement would be made. Friends of both the young people surrounded them today and none of them seemed a bit cut up over the publication of the story of their engagement.

Despite official family frowns on the newspaper stories, the romance of the young people makes good reading, for it's a real boy and girl college romance, the story all over again of the rich, rich young man who fell in love with the poor but charming girl.

Friends declared today that it would surprise no one if the engagement of young Morgan and Miss Converse was announced at the Beck Hall spread at Harvard Class Day in June, when young Morgan graduates.

Young Morgan, "Jack" Morgan, ("Gas House") Club at Cambridge, said today, when asked the truth of the report that he had become engaged to marry Miss Converse:

"Mrs. and Mrs. Converse are preparing a statement to be given out this afternoon, denying the rumor of my engagement to their daughter. It is true that I know the young lady; but to be engaged to marry her—that is quite another thing. It is untrue.

DENIAL BY MOTHER.

"Will you deny that such an engagement exists?" Mr. Morgan was asked. "I will, if necessary, but it would be superfluous in view of the fact that a denial will come from the Converse home," said Mr. Morgan.

"Is it true that there may be understanding' between you and Miss Converse, but that you do not care to have such a fact made public just yet?" he was asked.

"Even if there was it would be nobody's business. No engagement exists and there has been no announcement to that effect from the interested parties," flashed back the heir of the house of Morgan.

When seen at her home at No. 36 Lime street, Back Bay, today, Mrs. Converse, mother of Miss Converse, indignantly denied that any engagement had taken place. She said:

"The rumor that Louise is to marry Mr. Morgan is entirely without foundation. The report of such an engagement must be denied. Heaven knows where the papers got hold of the story.

"I am surprised that the press would circulate such a rumor without first consulting the interested parties. It is dreadfully embarrassing for all concerned.

"I wish to deny the existence of an engagement absolutely. That is all that I can say at present. When the proper time comes I may have something to say. That is all for the present."

Miss Converse "came out" this season at a reception given in December at her parents' home, No. 36 Lime street. A popular girl, fond both of society and athletics, and with an inherited musical ability, she has taken an active part in the season's social affairs without, however, attracting any especial notoriety. She is nineteen.

Young Morgan is twenty-three and a senior at Harvard College. For him, when his Summer's vacation is over, is destined an apprenticeship in his father's banking house, wherein he shall qualify himself for the reins of power of the Morgan fortune.

TALIAFERRO SISTERS STAR AT THE PARK

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

For the best part of two acts at the Park Theatre last evening you listened to a frank, but cheerful, discussion of freedom and love, with a lot of chatter about the uselessness of the marriage ceremony. For a time it seemed as if Rachel Crothers' comedy, "Young Wisdom," might break out with something too shocking for sensitive ears, but the worst that happened was the amusing prattle of two school girls on the subject of women's duty to herself and to her destiny—whatever that means.

Serving to introduce Mabel and Edith Taliaferro as bluebird girls of fish stars, "Young Wisdom" furnished an evening of exceptional good cheer. You didn't have to believe all that was said about woman's blindness to the world to enjoy Miss Crothers' comedy, that Miss Crothers sprinkled through her play. Making allowance for the fact that "Young Wisdom" was handicapped from the start by being written for two starlets, it had enough to find a play stout enough to support one—the entertainment presented up to the best standard of the season's comedies.

RICHARD STERLING SHINES.

While the Misses Taliaferro contributed charm to the performance that could only have been given by young women of their breeding and genuine acting skill, the brightest moments of the evening fell to Richard Sterling, a juvenile actor who made misery and mental distress a mine of fun. It was mentioned that Mr. Sterling was a joy to every drooping spirit in the audience.

"Young Wisdom," at the start, threatened to be heavy talky for comfort, but it passed the danger point when action set in. Mr. Sterling carried the best part of the action by unwillingly eloping with a girl and then being blamed for ruining her character. Naturally he was innocent.

To the Taliaferros was left the duty of preaching advanced thoughts in domestic life—one of which was to try a man out thoroughly before marrying him. You would have grasped some of the more suggestive of the fun had been less pointed. As it was, you laughed at the college girl notions, and hoped nothing disastrous would happen. It didn't.

SISTERS ARE GENUINE.

The severe critic would doubtless draw comparisons. But the circumstances seem to make it more gallant to say that both Mabel and Edith Taliaferro believed sincerely through the play, and gave the performance the luxury of girlishness that was both genuine and sweet. They caught the spirit of fun that ran through "Young Wisdom," and touched it with a refreshing Springtime color. Nevertheless, Richard Sterling was the particular joy that reigned supreme. He furnished the smile that followed you out of the theatre into the subway.

"Young Wisdom" was well worth the effort that sent you to the Park on such a disagreeable night. Try it yourself and be cheered.

War Pictures Are Shown Upon Screen at the Cort Theatre

Actual scenes on the battlefields of Mexico and views of the "Boys in Blue" preparing for war are shown at the Cort Theatre this week. Count Lorenzo Speyer de Besa, who lived in Mexico for twenty-five years and was an intimate friend of the late President Madero, is the lecturer.

First he described Mexico in the days when Madero was President. Then he drew upon the canvas of the screen showing the change that has come over the country since the present rebellion. There are the interesting scenes of the taking over of the government by Huerta and the conflict that followed. The pictures vividly show the Federal and Rebel camps and the battle front.

There are some fine views of the terrific battle of Torreon, and Generals Carranza and Villa are shown on the field of battle.

Huerta is shown in Mexico City reviewing the troops. The last reel shows pictures of the United States troops getting ready to enter Mexico, and of the United States fleet steaming south to seize Vera Cruz.

Plays That Remain.

"Stirring Julia Sanger," began its second week at the Globe Theatre yesterday. It is a spirited musical show.

Doris Keane in "Romance" continues at the Wilbur. Miss Keane is a very captivating young woman in this remarkable play.

"Within The Law" remains at the Majestic. Jane Cowl is featured in this stirring melodrama.

"The queen of the Movies" will remain through this week only at the Colonial. It is a spectacular girlie show.

"Under Cover," with William Courtenay, is still at the Plymouth. This is its nineteenth week in Boston.

David Warfield, as "The Auctioneer," is drawing large audiences to the Tremont. This is the last week but one of his engagements.

"Quo Vadis," in motion pictures, continues at Tremont Temple.

Scollay Square Olympia.

In the new program at the Scollay Square Olympia yesterday Mlle. Oberita and her dancing girls were presented as the feature act. Another well-liked number was supplied by Girard and Gardner, who gave a dialect farce comedy. All of the vaudeville features, as well as the new motion pictures, were attractive and entertaining.

Howard Athenaeum.

"The Telephone Girls" arrived at the Old Howard yesterday and gave two lively performances of up-to-date minute burlesque. There was also a special program of vaudeville features.

Bowdoin Square Theatre.

Arthur Houston and his company presented "Teddy in the Jungle" as the feature act at the Bowdoin Square Theatre yesterday. There were other vaudeville and motion picture novelties.

CASTLES SCORE TANGO TRIUMPH AT OPERA HOUSE

If you are not familiar with all the modern dances it is hardly the fault of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle, who spent yesterday afternoon and evening at the Boston Opera House explaining just how the tango, Maxixe and hesitation should be properly approached and gracefully acquired. The Castles make it very clear that dancing is a fine art, and as simple that everybody should take a hand—or, better, devote a foot—to it.

There has never been anything quite so unusual as the entertainment that Mr. and Mrs. Castle brought to the Opera House and presented to the tune of rag-time music, done by a plantation orchestra. The musicians worked overtime. The Castles had the help of a crew of their own special pupils from New York, who danced the modern steps just the way they should be done, and put the hopes of accomplishing—but never well.

After yesterday's performances it should be pretty well settled in the public mind that the present craze for dancing is a fleeting affair. The size of the Castle audiences and the manifest interest exhibited in every movement of the dancers furnished pretty sound proof that the tango and its several brothers and sisters make an institution almost as stable as the national government itself.

CASTLE DEPENDS DANCING.

The entertainment was chiefly an exhibition of modern dances by men and women who know how they should be done, and who had the grace to extend them in the most appealing fashion. You could hardly resist a temptation to accept Mr. Castle's general invitation to join in the amateur contest—it looked so easy. Naturally Mr. and Mrs. Castle defended dancing against its critics and with a sextette of his own private dancers he attempted to illustrate the proper and improper ways of the dance.

This was the most effective argument that could have been devised for a defence of the modern steps, for it showed dancing at its best and the folly of its corruption. One thing was certain—the audience was with the Castles.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Castle are artists who are not familiar with the proprieties, and the one-step and waltz were turned into movements of irresistible artistic beauty through their interpretation.

Hardly less interesting than the Castles themselves was the attitude of the two big audiences that crowded the Opera House yesterday in grand opera prices. Not even the ari of a Farrar or a Cavalieri could have drawn more enthusiastic gatherings. You even overlooked the midway style of orchestration and accepted everything as art in its highest form

BRINGS $10,000 HOUSE.

As Mr. Castle explained, the modern dances are more than a passing craze because their appeal is overwhelming. They are for the old as well as the young; for the awkward as well as the graceful. And if that wasn't enough to settle the question, you could still rely upon the day's receipts of more than $10,000, which made a rather sweetening contribution to the Castle House treasury.

Everybody danced but the audience and it wouldn't have taken much persuasion to have started that on a swinging tango.

'Officer 666' Bill at Castle Square Theatre This Week

There is a mingling of farce and melodrama in "Office 666," the bill at the Castle Square Theatre this week. Many laughable situations and complications arise during the action of the play, and altogether it is a most hilarious drama.

The hero is a young millionaire globe trotter, who returns from a trip abroad and finds his house occupied by a burglar who has appropriated his name and has become engaged to a pretty society girl. The millionaire finally regains possession of his name and his property. To do this he masquerades as a policeman, and it is from this the play gets its name.

The principal parts are in the hands of Dr. Carleton, Mr. Ormonde, Mr. Walker, Mr. Roberts, Miss Shirley, Miss Colcord and Miss Ossom.

"Officer 666" has a good dramatic plot and its farcical situations arise genuinely and logically from the story of the young millionaire. "Officer 666" was a great success and played to crowded houses when presented in this city some time ago and the Castle Square players are handling it in a capable manner this week.

Coming Attractions.

"The Misleading Lady" will come to the Colonial Theatre next week. "The Deep Purple" is announced as Mr. Craig's offering at the Castle Square next week.

E. H. Sothern, in a repertoire of his most popular plays, will come to the Shubert for two weeks beginning May 11.

St. James Theatre.

"Sidelights," a playlet of stage life, was presented as the big card in the new bill at the St. James Theatre yesterday. Other vaudeville features and new pictures were also seen.

Cambridge Club to Give Minstrel Show

Tomorrow and Thursday evenings the Cambridge Democratic Club will hold a minstrel show and dance in Institute Hall, East Cambridge, under the direction of Charles "Sandy" Chapman. President William L. Casey will be the interlocutor. The end seats will be filled by Alderman Thomas E. Delahanty, Walter Kelley, Alice Chapman, Anna Murray, Councilman Frank L. Mallahan, Connie Lane, Eva Centerton and Nina Makalusky.

In the Edisweiss sketch are Edward Chapman, Alice Chapman, Lillian Regan, Rena Doherty, Celia Doyle, Chris McKay, Pauline Touchett, Helen Madiras, Margaret Redding, Marie Brown and Celia Fitzgerald will appear.

BOSTON OPERA STARS WIN BIG PARIS SUCCESS

PARIS, April 28.—The Boston and Covent Garden Opera companies, which have just opened a Summer season here, have already registered an unqualified success. Henry Russell and Henry Vincent Higgins, who organized the venture, are jubilant.

Every member of the company is a Boston favorite, and the chorus in large part came direct from Boston upon the closing of the season there. The music-loving Paris folks have welcomed the ventura and showed their delight by a big attendance at the opening.

The size of the audience and the temper of the throng made the first night particularly impressive. Vanni Marcoux and Mme. Louise Edvina were starred, and the opera was Montemezzi's "Amore del Tre Re"—played for the first time in Paris. Mme. Edvina sang the part of "Fiora." She had never sung "L'Amore" before, but exceeded herself in her part. Afterwards she declared:

"I could feel that the audience was won shortly after the first act began."

MANY CURTAIN CALLS.

The second act was followed by a full dozen curtain calls, to which Mme. Edvina and Marcoux at first responded together, and finally she appeared alone.

That the new venture was to be an success was plain during the entracte after the first act. In the foyer and promenade the comments were enthusiastic, and the French folk lavished compliments on the directors who circulated among the throng.

Not only the voices of the principals and their supporters came in for praise, but the orchestra, the American chorus and Joseph Urban's scenery were lauded.

Vanni Marcoux is still saying that he is to be married. He first hinted as much in Boston, but refused to give the girl's name, and persisted in the refusal here. A big bouquet of flowers came to him from the women of the Halles markets with congratulations upon his engagement. Marcoux made his beginning in the Gaiete Lyrique, a theatre much frequented by market women, and their remembrance today was a reminder of those times.

Dino de Ferrari-Fontana and Francesco Ghirado were "Avito" and "Manfredo" in the performance. Their splendid impersonation of the two rivals, neither exaggerating nor allowing the fire of the parts to diminish, drew much favorable criticism both from the audience and from the press this morning.

AMERICANS IN AUDIENCE.

In the audience there were many Americans. Among the distinguished folk in the boxes were the United States Ambassador and Mrs. Herrick, the British Ambassador and Lady Feorodo na Bertie, Signor and Signora Tittoni, Leon Grimthorpe, the Princesse di Sticliano Colonna, Signor Eduardo Nathan, Mrs. W. E. Corey, Mrs. Depew, Miss Kate Fuller, Mrs. Clarence Mackay, the Comtesse de Gallifet, Mrs. Philip Lydig, Mme. de Paternotre, Mme. de Castro, Mrs. Graeme-Stewart, Mr. Shoninger, Walter Buckner, Mme. Elenna Eenes de Gorgoza, Mr. De Gorgoza, Lady Lowther, Mrs. Bache, Mrs. Morton Mitchell, Miss Hilton and Mr. Guggenheim.

Famous "Old Homestead" in Boston Again

"The Old Homestead," made famous the world over by Denman Thompson, came to the Boston Theatre last night, and a large audience, composed of some that had been there before and had seen Josh Whitcomb and Cy Prime argue it out around a checker table were treated to an excellent performance of the play built around West Swanzey, N. H., and its folk.

The performance was given under the personal direction of Frank Thompson, son of the creator of Josh Whitcomb.

Edward L. Baader proved a worthy successor of Denman Thompson. The chimes of Grace Church rang out as they have for many years in the dramatic part of the play, while Whitcomb is on Fifth avenue searching for his boy, who left Cupid for the bright lights. The double male quartette in "The Palms," gave an added touch of realism.

Harry S. Robinson, as Cy Prime; Fred Clare, Will Raymond, Robert Davis, Mrs. Marie Kimball, Donald Campbell, Jane Evans, Mildred Menow, Silbia Perrine, Gus Kanneberg, Charles Ingoldsby, Annie Thompson, William T. Brandt and George Paltz were favorites of The Old Homestead that were greeted again.

Irish Players Are Seen at Plymouth

With three splendidly acted playlets as their offering, the famous Irish players made a decided hit in their only Boston appearance at the Plymouth Theatre yesterday afternoon. The repertoire consisted of a tragedy, "The Clancy Name," by Lennox Robertson; a fairy extravaganza, "The King's Threshold," by William Butler Yeats; and a comedy, "Duty," by Seumas O'Brien.

As Mrs. Clancy, the mother, Nora Desmond gave a splendid exhibition in "The Clancy Name," while Fred O'donovan, as John Clancy, Eileen O'Doherty as Mrs. Spillane, and J. A. O'Rourke as Eugene Roche, played their parts with much vigor.

In "The King's Threshold," Yeats allowed his fancy full play. Fred Donovan, as Seanchan, the poet who was starving himself on the threshold of the king who refused to allow him to sit at the royal table, gave a splendid impersonation.

The comedy, "Duty," was well received, its brightness being welcome after the sombreness of the preceding playlets.

DONALD MEEK WINS A SUCCESS IN 'REFORMERS'

The newest of the season's offerings, "The Reformers," by John Cumberland, with Donald Meek, the former favorite of the John Craig Stock Company, in the principal role, was given for the first time on any stage last night at the Hollis Street Theatre.

If you like sparkling comedy, brilliantly acted, "The Reformers" will please you immensely. Mr. Meek's brand of comedy is well known to Boston playgoers, and the proof of his popularity and of his ability was displayed by the splendid reception he received.

The locale of the piece is a New Jersey town. The action centres about an over-sentimental woman who is desirous of having her husband, a mild-mannered man, elected to the Mayor's chair on the reformers' ticket. His wife is backed by many citizens, fellow club members of her husband.

As the campaign waxes warm, the friend of a small statured candidate arranges a plot whereby the little candidate gives a sentimental recital a bad beating in a public square. This makes him a hero and he walks away with the election. Everybody loves a fighter, and Donald Meek shows a few new points in the art. The arrest of the pugilist and the scenes following make very agreeable humor. In fact, the play held you from start to finish and its capacity for laughs was unlimited.

Supporting Mr. Meek is a splendid cast. Each one works hard and with splendid success. Miss Grace Goodall, who handled the lead, was delightfully original in her work. Others in the cast were Beverly West, Camilla Crume, Dorothy Hammack, Charlotte Adams, Dorris Kelley, Hazel Malcolm, Renee Fernandez, Raymond Walburn, Mitchell Louis, Duncan Harris, Fred Malcolm, Gordon Burby, Harlon Williams, and Will Buckley.

Gaiety Theatre.

Billy Watson, in a new edition of "Krausmeyer's Alley," gave the patrons of the Gaiety Theatre something to laugh at yesterday. Mr. Watson was never funnier, and his surroundings consisted chiefly of thirty good looking girls, who were evidently picked for their sense of burlesque.

Loew's Orpheum.

Pattee's Diving Girls were the headline feature of the new bill at the Orpheum Theatre yesterday. It was a high act, with many sensational features. New pictures were also exhibited.

Waldron's Casino.

The new burlesque entertainment at Waldron's Casino yesterday was supplied by "The Social Maids." It

DE HAVENS AND WAR PICTURES ON KEITH BILL

The audience at Keith's Theatre last evening left no possibility of doubt as to the popularity of Mr. and Mrs. Carter de Haven. Mr. and Mrs. de Haven appear in a neat little singing and dance act which is embellished with several of Mrs. de Haven's magnificent gowns and some of the high lights of Mr. de Haven's wardrobe.

His wardrobe, be it said, is about as noteworthy and conspicuous as that automobile of his with the lavender tonneau and black zebra stripes. "Just for advertising purposes," he informs the audience.

Between them they spring about all the choruses in the modern song and step, all very nifftily welded together with conversational lines, which makes their act unusually simple. It might be added, to their merit, that one can hear clearly every word they sing or speak.

They have to divide their popularity, however, with Walter S. Dickinson, "solicitor of the peace." Dickinson is perhaps one of the most clever "rube" characters ever seen.

The rest of the bill includes Clayton Kennedy and Mattie Rooney, "The original vaudevillians"; in "The Happy Darling," Bell and Caron, acrobats; Sharp and Turek, in "Chocolate Candies Just from Dixie;" Grace de Mar in a series of song creations; a playlet, "Before the Mast, by Ed Gallagher and Bob Carling; Daniels and Conrad in a rapid fire piano and violin number, and the Zeno troupe of trapeze artists, with a double somersault in air, blindfolded.

The weekly news moving pictures are particularly of note this week, being augmented with the Hearst-Selig war extra pictures, showing war preparations, the sailing of Admiral Badger, O'Shaughnessy at Mexico City, the fleet at Vera Cruz, army manoeuvres, the work of rapid-fire guns and the like.

Grand Opera House.

"The Girls From Joyland" made lively fun at the Grand Opera House yesterday. Joe Adams was the chief comedian, and he was flanked by a score of pretty girls.

Scenic Temple.

New pictures and new vaudeville acts were included if the bill at the Scenic Temple yesterday. The feature picture was "The Courtship of O'San."

MINERS FIRE ON 3 TOWNS

WALSENBURG, Col., April 28.—Firing from behind trees and rocks, guards of the McNally mine and attacking strikers are fighting a desperate battle today.

The Rocky Mountain and Toltec mines of the Rocky Mountain Fuel Company and Pictou mine of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company have been captured by the strikers. All of the employes have been driven into Walsenburg.

More than a dozen persons are reported to have been killed in the fight now going on in the hills.

DENVER, Col., April 28.—Anarchy is imminent in Colorado. Warfare spread to the northern coal mining district today, when strikers with machine guns attacked the towns of Louisville, Lafayette and Marshall. Louisville is reported to be burning.

Telephone communication with all the towns was destroyed. Reports that President Wilson had ordered two regiments of regular troops to enter the strike region from fort D. A. Russell at Cheyenne, Wyoming, created excitement here today. Washington advices, however, denied that this action had been taken.

Three hundred strikers attacked three mines of the Rocky Mountain Fuel Company in Northern Colorado about midnight and fighting was still in progress this afternoon. Twenty guards at the Vulcan mine at Lafayette retreated into the mouth of the shaft before the strikers' onslaught and were held prisoners today. Firing was also reported at the Gorham mine.

The Hecla mine near Louisville was the scene of another battle. All are in Boulder County, twenty-four miles from here. Sheriff Buster of Boulder has asked the governor for help.

The superintendent of the Watson mine in a telephone message received at the company's local office said three or four persons had been killed in an attack on the property by strikers. Troops arrived at the mine early today and the strikers ceased firing. The strikers will not go into action unless a general attack on the mine is made, the authorities say.

Eleanor Wilson Braves Heavy Gale in Fishing Craft

WOODS HOLE, April 28.—Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson and her chaperone, Mrs. David F. Houston, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, braved a forty-five mile an hour gale and made the trip from here to New Bedford on the specimen-collecting vessel, Cayadetta, of the Marine Biological Laboratory, to catch the express for Washington.

Miss Wilson came here to look for a suitable house in which to spend her honeymoon with her fiance, Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo. The lady decided against house-hunting out of the question and rather than spend the rest of the day here, with an added exposure at Boston, Miss Wilson and Mrs. Houston ventured the trip in the little fishing craft.

Woman Comes to Gifford's Defence

ALBANY, N. Y., April 28.—The mysterious passenger who rode with Frank J. Clute, a chauffeur, on the night when Clute was murdered a year ago, was not a youth resembling Malcolm Gifford, Jr., who is charged with killing Clute, but a man about thirty, according to Mrs. Mildred W. Thorne.

OPPOSES RATE INCREASE FOR EASTERN LINES

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The Eastern railroads that have asked for a five per cent. increase in freight rates are making sufficient money and their prosperity will continue if the advance is not granted, according to Clifford Thorne, representative of Western Railroad Commission, who filed a brief with the Interstate Commerce Commission today in opposition to the advance.

"The carriers have claimed an inability to properly take care of their properties because of lack of funds during recent years," the brief says.

"The undisputed evidence in this case shows that they have in fact been able to expend large sums for maintenance and improving their properties during the past four years than during any other four-years period in their history, and their expenditures of that character last year were $60,000,000 greater than ever before in their entire history.

"The carriers have claimed their securities were not attractive any more to the public and their credit was ruined.

"The evidence here shows that railway securities average higher than any other class of securities on the market next to government bonds; and their credit is equal to, or better, than that of any other large business enterprises engaged in any line of business or industry in the United States."

"The carriers claim that present net profit or net corporate income, even at its high level, is not adequate. This commission unanimously held in 1910 that in order to have sufficient revenue a company should be able to pay its operating expenses and fixed charges, including interest, taxes, etc., and have a sum left over equivalent to 7½ per cent. on its common stock.

"The carriers' own exhibits in this case show that last year the railroads as a whole in the Eastern district had sufficient to meet all these expenditures and pay their operating expenses, fixed charges, taxes and interest and had left over a sum equivalent to 5.07 per cent. on their entire capital stock outstanding, including both common and preferred.

"During the past five years they have averaged 5.06 per cent, and during the preceding period they averaged 7.59 per cent."

Lee Selectmen in Liquor License War

Carty & Brown threaten to have Kane removed from office because of his refusal to sign the papers.

Don't Let a Cold Settle on Your Lungs

Many cases of lung trouble can be traced directly to a severe cold which has been neglected and which, as a result, has affected the lungs. If you have a persistent cough or cold, take warning before it is too late. Kickman's Alterative is most beneficial in such cases and has been the means of completely restoring to health many persons who had serious lung trouble. Read of this one:

Pleasantville, N. J.
"Gentlemen—During the month of April, 1911 I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs. The doctor prescribed various remedies but I tried nearly every preparation without any result and kept getting worse. Kickman's Alterative was recommended to me and I commenced using it as a last resort. The first bottle seemed to give me relief, in fact, I seemed to feel every day that I was getting better and found out the first bottle had nearly started me on the road to health. I continued using it and making no experiments, and in a few weeks I was entirely free from my cough, regained health and today I am a well man."—GEO. M. BATES. (Signed)

Kickman's Alterative has been proven by many years' use to be the most effective blood remedy. Clears the blood, clears the skin, clears the lungs. Absolutely free from opium, morphine, cocaine, cocaine, chloroform, coal tar products, poisons or habit-forming drugs. Sold by leading druggists. HOLD ARMY FOR RAID ON ULSTER

LONDONDERRY, Ire., April 28.—An unknown steamer, declared by Irish Nationalists to be an American filibuster, landed a mysterious cargo at Loughswilley, on the Donegal coast, today. The cases making up the cargo were alleged to be arms and ammunition consigned from the United States for the Ulster Unionists.

LONDON, April 28.—Secret orders were issued to British troops today to hold themselves in readiness for a movement into Ulster province as a result of the wholesale gun-running operations of the antihome rule forces there.

Five British warships are lying off Belfast and throughout the night they kept their searchlights playing upon the city and adjacent coast to prevent the landing of the cargoes reported to be in the neighborhood.

After a lull in their warlike activity the Unionists of Ulster have resumed their military preparations on a larger scale than ever, it is said.

At a meeting of Cabinet members in Downing street during the morning the suggestion was offered that steps be taken at once to seize the 70,000 rifles and 500,000 cartridges landed in Ulster last Friday in violation of the embargo on arms. It was argued by those favoring this course that the war munitions could be declared contraband and thus made liable to seizure.

Sir Edward Carson, leader of the Ulster Unionists, who is in London, had a long conference with other Unionists at which measures were discussed to prevent the seizure of the arms. There is a likelihood that a big fleet may be anchored off along the Ulster coast to prevent other filibustering operations.

In addition to the five warships off Belfast the Admiralty is holding a squadron of dreadnaughts off the Scottish coast within three hours' run from Belfast.

Skin Health Comes From the Blood

Even Slight Eruptions Such As Acne Should Be Treated.

Pimples and other skin troubles do not alight on the face like flies. They come bubbling out from within. They are impurities. And if left alone or crossed with salves they become chronic, simply because the source is still at work within. It should be attacked with S. S. S. and the beneficent blood purifier, but each the impurities in the blood thus rendered harmless.

The skin is but a net work of fine blood vessels. And it is a perfectly natural consequence that any influence in the blood that is a condition of ill health makes its first appearance in the skin. There are certain medicinal properties that follow the course of the blood stream and the influence of these upon the skin is that of an antidote. This is why S. S. S., the best known blood purifier, has such a positive action in the skin. There is one ingredient in S. S. S. which peculiarly stimulates cellular or glandular activity to select from the blood or from this fine net work of blood vessels in the skin those elements which it requires for regeneration.

Thus pimples, acne, eczema, lupus, or any other blood condition that attacks the skin or seeks an outlet through the skin is met with the antidote in S. S. S.

This is why skin troubles vanish so readily and why they do not return.

Under the influence of S. S. S. this fine net work of blood vessels in the skin is constantly taking from the blood the nutrition required for healthy tissue and the cause of disease is just as constantly being removed, scattered and rendered harmless. These facts are more fully explained in a book on skin troubles sent by the Swift Specific Co., 151 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. You will find S. S. S. on sale at all drug stores. One bottle today and banish all skin afflictions.

Girl Describes "Snipper" Who Cut Her Braid

"Jack the Snipper" descriptions were given the police of Cambridge today by twelve-year-old Margaret Halloran, of No. 16 Wilbur street in that city, whose long brown braid of hair was cut off by a dark stranger while the girl was looking at pictures in a Massachusetts avenue drug store window.

Her eyes swollen with crying and almost heart-broken over the loss of her hair, the little girl was positive that the man who cut off her braid was very tall, and dark, almost to swarthiness. He was dressed in a long dark overcoat, and wore a cap, the visor of which was pulled down over his eyes, when last she saw him.

Twelve-year-old Margaret today said that she noticed a man beside her while she was looking into a store window. As she entered the door of her home the long dark ribbon fell to the ground. This was a full half-hour after her hair had been cut off, the snipper having made his escape in the meantime.

The police of Cambridge today instituted a search for the snipper. Little girls throughout the city, in many instances, are sacking their braids beneath their hats, fearing that they will be the next victims.

Conditional Liberty for Ida Von Claussen

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 28.—Mrs. Ida Von Claussen, who gained notoriety by trying to bring a $1,000,000 libel suit against Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, was today ordered conditionally released from the Matteawan Asylum for the Criminal Insane by Supreme Court Justice Mills.

Police Boat Finds Body in Harbor

The police boat Watchman found a man's body floating off Simpson's drydock in East Boston today. It was the body of a man five feet eleven inches tall, weighing 230 pounds, roughly dressed and had been long in the water. The police believe some longshoreman fell overboard and was drowned.

AN IRRESISTIBLE CHARACTER

—"If you even want another man's wife when you grow up, 'God help him.'" In the opening chapter of Winston Churchill's great new novel "A Far Country," just starting in Hearst's Magazine, the man who thus addressed the stripling before his little knee is the truth of what he said. The record of the development of this boy's character, and the analysis of the forces that influenced it is the great work of Winston Churchill most worthy of himself. Start the story today in Hearst's Magazine.

ASK WALSH FOR PROBE OF DENTAL BOARD

The feud between factions of the dentists of the State, which has raged most bitterly over the so-called "dentist nurse bill," broke out in a new place today, when it became known that a number of dentists, headed by Dr. Waldo E. Boardman, have asked Governor Walsh to order an investigation of the accounts of the State Board of Registration in Dentistry, for the past ten years.

The Governor is asked to direct the State Board of Economy and Efficiency to make the investigation. There is no charge against any member of the Board of Registration, and the ground given for investigation is the statement that an examination of vouchers of the board in the Auditor's office warrants the conclusion that the board has spent money for purposes not within the law.

Dr. Boardman, who lives in Winthrop and has offices on Boylston street, said today:

"We addressed our report for an investigation to the Governor and the executive council, and the latter gave the Governor full power to act in the matter. In December of 1912, and January of 1913 those interested in this investigation examined vouchers filed by the State board with the auditor. We found a great many things, as the result of which we have asked for an investigation going back ten years. There were eight signers to this request for an investigation; I could have obtained 200."

The members of the State Dental Board are John F. Dowsley, Boston, chairman; George R. Mitchell, Haverhill, secretary; Thomas J. Barrett, Worcester; C. Wesley Hale, Springfield, and Owen J. Eagan, Fall River.

"We welcome any investigation that may be ordered," declared Dr. Dowsley. "The further they go the better we will like it. Dr. Boardman and those interested with him have been insistent that we should favor certain legislation such as the so-called dental nurse bill, and we have steadfastly opposed such legislation. I regard this as simply another attempt to embarrass the board because of our position on this legislation."

CONFESSION IS BLOW IN FIGHT TO SAVE BECKER

NEW YORK, April 28.—That a blow has been struck at the defence of ex-Police Lieutenant Charles Becker in his second trial for the murder of Herman Rosenthal through a confession made early today by William E. Burwell was the statement made at the office of District Attorney Whitman today.

The prisoner, who is also known as the "St. Louis Kid," confessed that testimony he had given in an effort to secure a new trial for the four gunmen was false. Burwell is also alleged to have given the name of the person who concocted his story and coached him in its delivery. He admitted he received money for committing perjury.

According to Burwell's confession he was first approached in a pool room in Poughkeepsie, New York, by a man he knew to be a crook. This man said there was a lot of "easy money" to be made for any one who would go to a little risk for the gunmen.

Burwell said he was promised $1,000, but only received a part of that sum. He was brought to this city and introduced to a member of the police force. Then he was introduced to a lawyer and it was in a lawyer's office that he was instructed in what he was to say before Justice Goff.

Mr. Whitman believes that Burwell and others who were interested in the fight for a new trial for the International Union of Mining Engineers and of the National Association of Stationary Engineers in attendance.

NO. 4

ATTENTION MAYOR CURLEY!

The Inspector of Gas for the City of Minneapolis states that Minneapolis city pays $60 per year for the magnetite arc lamp.

Why do you want Boston to pay $87.53 for the same lamp? You boast of having saved $10,000 a year by the discharge and the reduction of doctors and nurses in the Health Department (without stating how much you have thereby impaired the public health). Now the difference between the price which Minneapolis pays and what you want Boston to pay is the tidy little sum of $123,885 a year. This is twelve times more than you saved at the cost of efficiency in the work of protecting the public health.

It is almost three times what you claimed to have saved at the cost of the men in the Fire Department. It is more than twice what you claim to have saved by the reductions and discharges in the Street Department.

Is the preservation of the 12 per cent. dividends of the Edison Electric Light Company more precious than the public health and property?

He was one of the leading ministers of his denomination and had charge of the old Bromfield Street Church from 1882 to 1904. He was born in Ireland and came to this country when fourteen years old, and was graduated from Wilbraham Academy in 1875, and from Wesleyan College in 1879. He received the degree of Ph. WELSH RULES 10-6 FAVORITE OVER CROSS FOR BIG COAST BOUT

WELSH IS 10-6 FAVORITE FOR CROSS BATTLE

BOUTS TONIGHT.

Leach Cross vs. Freddie Welsh, at Vernon, Cal.

Dannie Mellen vs. Ad Wolgast, at Flint Mich.

Eddie Flynn vs. Yankee Evans, K. O. Pallis vs. Hartley Sivia, Young Aronson vs. Young Shea, at New London.

Patsy Callahan vs. K. O. Brown, Soldier Bartfield vs. Bill Fleming, Eddie Carroll vs. Larry Desmond, at New York.

Jess Willard vs. George Rodel, at Atlanta, Ga.

Charley White vs. S. D. Hirsch, at Milwaukee.

By JACK CONWAY.

FREDDY WELSH and Leach Cross are both fit for their twenty-round bout which will be staged in Vernon, Cal. tonight, and neither boxer will be able to offer any excuses if defeated. Welsh rules a 10 to 6 favorite in the betting and is expected to breeze in a winner. Cross, however, does not lack supporters, as there are many close followers of ring affairs who believe he will land a knockout punch inside of the limit.

The winner of tonight's tussle will probably be matched with Willie Ritchie in a championship battle in California on July 4. Consequently, each boxer will have his hardest in order to win tonight's struggle.

Welsh is the English lightweight champion and has been seeking a bout with Ritchie ever since the latter defeated Ad Wolgast. He asserts that if he conquers Cross he will be in a position to force the title holder to enjoy the ring with him.

WELSH is entitled to a whirl with Ritchie, as he has met experienced much difficulty in defeating every lightweight whom he has met during the past few years. The English champion is twenty-eight years of age and has been earning a livelihood within the hemp ropes for the past decade. He has fought most of the world's foremost 133-pound glove men and has usually given an excellent account of himself.

Welsh and Ritchie engaged in a twenty-round encounter in a Vernon ring on November 30, 1911. Ritchie was substituted for Ad Wolgast when the latter was stricken with appendicitis on the eve of the battle. It was not expected that Ritchie would be able to make Welsh exert himself, and the wise men predicted that he would be knocked out inside of ten rounds. The Frisco boy surprised the "fans" when he coursed Welsh along at a merry clip, and not only lasted the limit, but was the aggressor in the latter part of the bout.

RITCHIE, of course, has improved a great deal since he was beaten by Welsh. If the two men were to meet today the Californian would undoubtedly enter the ring as the favorite.

Welsh is one of the cleverest boxers in the world, and his skill and speed will probably cause the downfall of Ritchie tonight. Ritchie's only chance of victory seems to be by landing a knockout blow. He cannot hope to outbox Welsh. He must depend entirely upon the power of his fists in order to turn the tide of battle in his favor.

THERE will not be any show at the Atlas A. A. tonight. The management of the local club was unable to sign up any star performers and called off this week's show rather than put on a mediocre card. Boxing talent is very scarce just now, and the promoters are having a difficult time arranging matches which will cause the fistic stars to separate themselves from good United States currency.

JOHNNY GRIFFITHS, the Akron, O. lightweight, has been matched to meet Joe Mandot of New Orleans in a ten-round bout at Racine, Wis., on May 6. Griffiths has been doing good work within the hemp ropes and is confident that he will win from Mandot.

IT will be the second bout between these two men. They boxed an eight-round draw at Windsor, Canada, in January. Both boys believe that they will be able to show to better advantage over the ten-round route. The weight for the contest is 133 pounds at 2 o'clock.

'Feds' Admitted to the Cub Park Free

CHICAGO, April 28.—Federal League players will not be required to pay their way to the Cub park this season. This was the announcement made by President Thomas when several of the Chifed athletes visited the grounds, led by Manager Joe Tinker.

"No ball player will be refused admittance to the Chicago National League park," Thomas said. "The Cub park is a second home to Joe Tinker and it would be a crime for us to make him pay to get in to see his old pals perform."

In St. Louis last week "Miner" Brown's Federal League players were forced to pay to see the Terre Haute Pirates play, and the men took it for granted that this held good all over the circuit.

Bolin Will Tackle Pair in Last Bout

Eddie Bolin, the 158-pound wrestler has undertaken a very difficult task in agreeing to throw both Jim Follows and Crackerjack Butler, each inside of an hour, at the Grand Opera House Thursday night. Both Butler and Follows have shown well among the welterweights. The bout will be the

RITCHIE CLOSES BOUT THAT BRINGS TITLE

By WILLIE RITCHIE—NO. 15

THE long rest at the Lake County ranch did me a lot of good, and I returned to San Francisco feeling like my old self once more. My hand was entirely healed.

But I was still in wrong with the fans. They refused to believe that I did not deliberately run out on Hogan.

Billy Nolan came to the front with a challenge to Wolgast in my behalf, and also offered to match me with Wolgast or other lightweights, including Hogan. But, somehow or other, things did not break right for us.

To add to my troubles I soon became aware of the fact that Jim Coffroth, the only man in the field to handle a match between Wolgast and myself, was at outs with my manager. It seems that they never settled that old feud.

I was advised on all sides to get rid of Nolan. My most intimate friends told me that we would get me in bad and that I would not land any good matches because of Billy's unpopularity.

In the meantime, Nolan and Coffroth had a match over the match which they were discussing and the match with Wolgast looked further away than ever. Still I felt more determined than ever to get the champion into the ring with me. Finally I decided on a plan.

Ritchie Visits Coffroth and Closes Match.

"Billy," I said, "I'll go and see Coffroth myself and see what I can do in the way of getting a match. But you will still be my manager."

I dropped in on Coffroth the following afternoon and, strange to relate, we had everything fixed up in half an hour. Neither Wolgast nor Tom Jones, his manager, was present. But they did not have to be on the job, for Coffroth had already agreed to their terms.

I knew that Wolgast was to get the first $15,000 that came into the house, I realized that he was the champion, the big drawing card, and that I would have to gamble for my end of it.

After a long argument Coffroth agreed to give me 50 per cent. of the receipts, ranging from $15,000 to $20,000, which Wolgast had been paid. That looked fair enough to me and I accepted. Then Coffroth said that he would give me 40 per cent. of the receipts ranging from the $20,000 mark and up. The fight drew something more than $27,000. My bit was a little more than $5,300.

After coming to terms with Promoter Coffroth for my first championship battle, I just made up my mind to devote my entire time getting in the best physical condition. I selected Billy Shannon's place as my training quarters because of the nice, mild climate in San Rafael.

Weight Was No Trouble to Ritchie.

Wolgast and the majority of the fans thought that the weight would bother me, but I knew different. I tried myself out before, and there was no doubt in my mind that I could do 133 pounds ringside and be strong.

I used to lay awake nights thinking about worrying, as most of them believed. I was thinking out a plan to beat Wolgast. I made up my mind after that four-round scrap of ours that I had his number, but I knew that I would have to be at my best to win.

I went to take off my hat right here to Wolgast as a wonderful man in the ring—strong, willing, game and a hard puncher. But I discovered in my first fight with him, and also by watching his battle with Nelson, that he had a trick or two up his sleeve. In other words, that he could not stand a hard punch to the point and come back. This gave me a line to work on.

I finally came to the conclusion that I would let him tear away at me and just lay for his jaw. Wolgast always did fight in a crouch, and his peculiar style of covering up generally had his opponents baffled, but I figured that he would have to open up some time during the fight. I was going to be ready when the chance came.

Majors Pay When Released Men Hop

That the National Commission is resolved to make the major leaguers bear the brunt of the fight against the Federals has been shown in one of its most radical rulings at the recent conference in Chicago. Hereafter when a major league player is released to a minor league club the major league club so disposing of his services will have to stand the loss in case the player refuses to report to his new club or jumps to the Federal League. As an illustration of the working of the new release law, take the case of Bonny Hearne, recently released to Toronto. If he had not reported to Toronto the New York Nationals would have been compelled to return the purchase price of the player to that minor league club.

Tech Record Maker to Be Given Trophy

"Doc" Leslie, the former Harvard shotputter and strong man, by tossing the iron ball 42 feet 1¼ inches in the Tech-Brown meet, set a new mark for institute athletics. The former record of 41 feet 1½ inches was held by O. V. Chamberlain, who made it in 1911. Leslie will be awarded a record cup.

F. L. Cook, the two-miler who broke the Maine record in the meet, will go after the Tech mark of 9 minutes 52 4-5 seconds in the Holy Cross meet at Tech field next Saturday.

Swimming Records Go by the Board

Irving S. Jaquith of the Brookline S. C. was the star performer at the indoor swimming championships of the N. E. A. A. U. at the Ocean Pier Baths, Revere, covering 75 feet 1⅛ inches in the one minute allowed for the plunge for distance, thereby bettering the old record of 70 feet, made several years ago by Al McCormick, also of Brookline and a former national champion.

Four championship events were decided—and the two great rivals, the Brookline Swimming Club and the Brookline Gymnasium A. A. divided the titles.

Wilson Hits Too Hard for Federal Leaguers

CHICAGO, April 28.—A force of men today began moving back for twenty-five feet the left field fence at the local Federal League park. Right home run hits have been knocked over the fence in the three games played here, and it was decided the proportion was too great.

Arthur Wilson, the Chicago catchers, formerly with the Giants, has made four home runs on the home field.

W. Johnson Picks Senators for Flag

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 28.—It is seldom that Walter Johnson, the great pitcher, talks to a baseball writer about his team's chances in the pennant race, but he did today.

"If two of our young pitchers come through and either Shanks or Moeller will contribute to our hitting strength by batting even .280, I don't see how the Athletics or any other club in the American League can stop us from breezing home in front," is the way Johnson puts it.

SIDELIGHTS ON SPORTS

By A.H.C. Mitchell.

THEY are worrying about the Athletics over in Philadelphia and the fans there are demanding that Connie Mack's men get busy in morning practice and learn how to bat. This shows that fans are impatient in other cities besides Boston. They expect their club to get the jump on the other fellows right at the start and lead the league all the way.

* * *

WE in Boston are hoping the Braves will soon begin to show they hit the ball when hits mean runs. That Stallings is doing quite a bit of worrying is shown by the fact that he wasted no time in trying to mend his fences. One would think that outfielders enough with Connolly, Gilbert, Mann, Griffith and Collins, but they have been so lamentably weak with the stick all season (even at training camp) that the Boston manager made haste in buying Jim Murray from the Buffalo club. Also the fact that Hank Schmitt showed no signs of breaking fences led Stallings to go after Kraft, who hit over .300 in the Southern League last season.

* * *

WE have seen Murray in action and he stands up at the plate in a manner that seems to show that his reputation as a slugger is not misplaced. Murray hit for an even .300 in the International League last season. He played in 119 games and made 131 hits, including 21 doubles, 15 triples and six home runs.

* * *

FRANK CHANCE, who has joined the ranks of author-managers, doesn't think much of the Red Sox this year. From he hasn't seen the team play this season and doubtless he based his opinion on the showing of the first few days. He believes Washington will finish second and the Red Sox will be lost in the shuffle.

Well, Frank, you never can tell about this baseball business. But there are a lot of fans over in this town that will bet you Carrigan's men finish in the first division and will use to bet you that your team will not.

Dan Maher Marries Young English Girl

CAPT. LOCKETT MAY BE LEADER OF ENGLISH POLO

By JAMES S. MITCHELL.

The names of the British international polo team definitely announced a few days ago, have been familiar enough to readers of the AMERICAN for several months. As far back as last September I mentioned that Lord Ashby St. Ledgers (now Lord Wimborne), and started to muster a team for another assault on the Westchester Cup, with Maor Barrett, of the Fifteenth Hussars as the leader.

It was the earliest news printed about this year's tussle. The Polo Association first laughed at the idea of anybody but the Duke of Westminster having the pluck or money to go behind a polo challenge, and that at least a couple of years would elapse before the English would work up courage to cross sticks with the Americans again.

A few weeks ago the AMERICAN again printed the line-up of the British team, but the latest news shows that the AMERICAN had the real situation correct from the start. The newest arrangement of the Britishers is that Maor Barrett will be No. 1; Maor H. H. Matthew-Lannowe, No. 2; Captain Vivian N. Lockett, No. 3, and Major C. F. Ellis-back, with Captain H. A. Tompkinson as a substitute.

In the original story I stated that Captain Tompkinson, who hails from the Royal Dragoons, would have a regular nomination on the invading forces; and despite the fact that Maor B. H. Matthew-Lannowe is mentioned now I have been informed that the selection is but temporary and that when the team strips for the fray at Meadow Brook, Capain Tompkinson will be seen on the firing line.

There is another piece of news about the team which has rolled across the Atlantic, and that is that Captain Lockett may have command of the Britishers by the time they hit these shores. His position at No. 3 is the ideal place for the captaincy of a team and in that case he may have to assume the responsibility. Formerly of the Twelfth Lancers, Captain Lockett has been retired and is now an adjutant in the Cheshire Yeomanry.

Channell Released.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Upon his return with the New Yorks from Philadelphia, Manager Frank L. Chance announced the release of Fielder Lester Channell to the Buffalo International League club. Channell goes to the Bisons as part of the deal which brought Second Baseman Frank Truesdale here.

GEORGE E. PHAIR SAYS:

THE MORALIZING MAGNATE.

Not many years ago a man who jumped
Was met with tears of joy.
And warmly on his manly back they thumped
And said, "Well done, my boy."
But now a man who jumps is but a knave,
Devoid of self-respect,
A soulless wretch beyond all pow'r to save,
Or words to that effect.
'Tis sweet to hear a magnate moralize
On honor true and tried,
And yet I wonder why he never ties
His little ball outside.

The Naps occasionally turn on their tormentors and win a ball game, showing the uncertainty of baseball.

Armando Marsans being a Cuban, it is hard to understand why he hesitates to become an insurrecto

Charlie Weeghman doesn't care what you call his ball team as long as you call at his ball park and deposit the price of admission.

It may be true that a ball team must have an appropriate name before it can win a pennant, but think of all the appropriate names that have been wished on the Browns, who have not won a pennant since the year of the Big Wind.

The wonder is that Mr. Ward does not make a raid on Mr. Ebbets' team and get a corner in Wheat.

One is not surprised to hear that Honus Wagner has been appointed to the Pennsylvania Fish Commission. Being a regular whale, Honus knows all about fish.

Having signed a new contract, Larry Cheney will not jump for three years unless the Feds offer him more money in the meantime.

Recent court reports reveal the fact that Jeff Tesreau is a jumper from the Cupid League.

It would be interesting to know how much the aforementioned $25,000 amounts to in regular, bona fide money.

BROOK FEDS WILL PLAY

Labor Troubles Are Settled

TO OPEN UP ON MAY 11

BROOKLYN, April 28.—John M. Ward, business manager of the Brooklyn Federals, announces that the labor troubles which have retarded building operations at Washington Park have been adjusted and that the team will open its home season on May 11, even if it has to utilize an unfinished plant.

"The whole trouble was a squabble between the carpenters and the ironworkers," said Ward. "It was simply a question about placing the chairs. This has always been the work of the carpenters, but the ironworkers insisted that as part of the chairs were metal they should be allowed to do the work. It has been settled."

In fact, what otherwise would have been a great battle was marred by the holding of both men. In what execution was done Campi played the leading role.

RED SOX MEET YANKEES TODAY FOR FIRST TIME

NEW YORK, April 24—With the entire squad in great shape, the Red Sox outfit arrived in town this morning ready to take a few falls out of the surprising Yankees. The way the Chance youngsters have been performing has made them the talk of the league, and the Boston players, who seem to have the proper dope once again, figure that it is about time somebody stopped them, before they get going too fast and thereby raise ructions all through the battle.

Manager Carrigan will probably shoot his left-hander, "Dutch" Leonard into the breach today, while Chance will use Caldwell, unless he decides to keep him at first base and puts in Keating instead.

The crowds are now beginning to flock out to the Yankee park, attracted by the scrappy ball the new outfit is putting up, and the series with the Red Sox—always popular here—promises to draw a very big attendance.

The New York team does not look any too strong on paper, but is nevertheless pruning the goose. The new men have been playing well on the field, hitting hard and pulling the bones generally offered by recruits.

Second base has to date been the weakest spot in the lineup, but with Truesdale ready to step in, the defect may perhaps be remedied.

GIANTS HERE TO OPEN FOUR GAME SERIES

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

John J. McGraw and his New York Giants arrived in Boston today [illegible] for a four game series with the Braves. The first set-to will be played this afternoon and the remaining three will be run off [illegible] afternoon and the chances are that Dick Kroh will be called upon to do his pitching for Stallings players.

The giants have not been going any too well so far season opened. The great Matheweon blames it on the weather, but the weather is no respecter of baseball teams, and all are treated alike. The Braves, too, have not played well, but at times attributes the poor showing to poor batting.

The appearance here of the Giants is the first this year. Many of them have been around the world since we saw them last. McGraw is keen on getting a good start in the race, as every manager is, and no doubt he will put forth his best efforts to put his team to down the Braves.

If the Boston team will only on Little hitting Mr. McGraw's best return to New York in a very sad state of mind, for the Boston pitchers can wallop the ball better than they have done this season it will be all off.

From the stanopoint of the "fans," who care little for the ailing of baseball managers, what is wanted is the right kind of baseball weather. They have had enough of the chill stuff. When the right kind of weather comes along and the Braves deliver the right kind of hits, the fans will turn out in force.

"Dave" Stallings is not satisfied with the batting of his team and with the uneven face the Giants have differs hitting order will be different. Maranville, who has been batting in third place and has left fielding in third place with Joe Connolly stepping to the plate first. Lewis remains in second position, Griffith, who has been batting in the clean-up position, will be given rest and Murray, the new outfielder, will bat in his place and play left field. Schmidt comes next in the new order with Doak batting sixth and Gowdy in the seventh position. Mains will but just ahead of the pitcher.

Brooklyn 'Feds' Pay Highest Salaries

BROOKLYN, April 23.—The team that represents Brooklyn in the Federal League this season is the highest paid team in baseball, according to Treasurer Walter Ward. Each of Mr. Bradley's troupe will get upward of $4,000 for the season, and those pitchers will soon be signed that will give that mark a big jump so much as Walter Perkins [illegible] Brooklyn Feds will pay nearly $40,000 for their team, but other club [illegible] organization. It has been noised about supposed that the Giants and Red Sox are trying to secure Perkins [illegible] but the payroll of the Brooklyn [illegible] has made another record.

HARVARD CREW IS SHAKEN UP AFTER DEFEAT

There were three changes in the Harvard crew and may possibly be more, as a result of the Crimson defeat by the Middies on the Severn Saturday.

Harwood at No. 6 and Gallagher, coxswain, went back to the second boat, while Parsons and Sargent move up to take their places.

Gardiner has now recovered from his recent attack of tonsilitis and is back at his old seat at No. 4, while Morgan will be shifted back to the seconds.

For the present these changes will hold, but unless the first combination can work up more speed than has been shown, there will be further shifts within a week.

The fact that the second crew Saturday in beating the Middy seconds made the same time that did the victorious navy varsity has further impressed on Coach Wray that he has a surfeit of good material and consequently a lot of trouble ahead before he can get it aligned rightly to get the best possible results.

There is some consolation for the varsity men, however, in the fact that Coxswain Wingate's handicap [illegible] should have been able to come home victors despite the handicap [illegible] the new rule of the crew, if the open pick up at all, will be kept until at the least after the race with Cornell on the 16th. May 16.

There will be no layoff whatever for any member of the squad, and the work [illegible] from now on will consist of efforts to get up speed, with each [illegible] trying now to keep candidates [illegible] per trim.

CHAPTER VIII.

WAR ended at last with a compromise that hardly repaid either side for the loss of life and destruction of property which had taken place. Things settled back into their accustomed grooves and outwardly everything seemed much the same as before. This was probably due to the fact that there had been little ravaging of the country-side, but in the hearts of the homes war had struck its deepest blow, and things could never be the same.

Lieutenant Maxim returned to his home with much the same thought in his heart that he had carried through the latter part of the war. He had tried to laugh himself out of it, but the thing was there and there to stay. He was in love with Helene Modzel, and he knew that there wasn't a hope in the world that she might ever care for him.

Ever since his return his father had watched him with quickened eyes. Love had always meant so little to the younger man that his preoccupied air seemed almost amusing. Many times he had laughed skeptically at the amours of his friends when they had been caught, as he termed it. Adolph Hardy had never cared for women at all. Lieutenant Maxim had never been able to care for one woman alone. At any rate love now seemed to be the only satisfactory explanation for the way he felt at present, so one day his father broached the question in his funny, blunt way.

"Who is she, old fellow?"

"Who?" returned the lieutenant, determined to dodge the question.

"The girl, of course. Are you going to tell me there isn't one? And if you want her why not get her? There's nothing the matter with you, is there? No reason why she shouldn't want you?"

"Every reason in the world. She doesn't love me."

"Is that all? Well, who is she, and how do you know she doesn't love you?"

The lieutenant laughed at his father. "You're a persistent old fellow," he said, disrespectfully, "but I'll tell you who she is. Just to let you know how impossible it would be to get her, as you say. Her name is Helene Modzel, and I think she was desperately in love with Adolph Hardy. You know he was found out to be Herzstern's death dealing aviator, the one who was blown up in the mill."

SHE CAN'T FORGET

"Of course the girl doesn't know that!" said his father, thoughtfully.

"No, it isn't known outside of war circles, but she knows that he is dead, and she isn't the kind of a girl to forget."

"Suppose you go up with me this week to Lisely Cottage. I want to see Jean Modzel about some land proposition, and you can improve the shining hours by talking to Helene. Buck up, old chap. Faint heart never won fair lady."

Helene Modzel had not changed in any apparent way since the death of Adolph Hardy had become generally known. She wasn't the kind of a girl to pine away and die for the loss of her lover, and although the shock had left her a little quieter, there was a shade of deeper mystery in her eyes that made her altogether irresistible.

"Helene is like a beautiful puzzle," said Mr. Modzel one day to his wife after Helene had left the room. "If I weren't her father I think I'd fall in love with her myself."

"Do you think she cared a great deal about Adolph Hardy?" said his wife, smiling at his remark.

"Yes, but I don't think we'll ever know just how much. Helene is the kind of a girl who never lets people know what she is thinking about." And upon this conversation Lieutenant Maxim and his father were announced."

Mr. Modzel had never forgotten the fact that Lieutenant Maxim had been with George at the last, and that it had been through the young lieutenant that George's last words had been brought home to his family. So he greeted the men with a hearty welcome.

"We've come on a question of business," said Mr. Maxim, plunging into the subject immediately. "I wonder if you would be willing for me to have some of your land on the west, just off the aviation court."

The question of buying and selling was discussed and business proceedings arranged, and then gradually the topic of conversation turned to more personal matters.

HE CONFESSES

"The truth of it is," said Lieutenant Maxim, suddenly taking his courage in both hands, "I have some business of much great importance to talk over with you, Mr. Modzel. I am in love with your daughter Helene. Do you think the idea is quite hopeless?"

Mr. Modzel hesitated a moment. The thing did sound rather hopeless as matters stood just at present. Helene was very unapproachable, but then, of course, she would decide for herself anyway, and it might be just as well to give Lieutenant Maxim his opportunity. Perhaps it would be better for Helene to have an awakened interest in life.

"Where is Helene, anyway?" he said, suddenly. "I'll go out in the garden and see if I can find her."

When the two came in a few minutes later the lieutenant drew back almost involuntarily at the unusual beauty of the girl's face. She had come into the house at her father's request, because she would have scorned to have him know that there was any reason why she didn't care to meet people. And as Lieutenant Maxim met her again an uncertain feeling came over him as though he were in the present of unknown depths. It was a way peculiar to Helene. Almost as if she withdrew into herself, and peered out at the world from the protecting shell of her personality, but it never failed to make an impression upon those around her.

"How do you do?" she said as his hand closed over her slim cool fingers. And she looked at him from under straight, level brows, the hurt deep in her heart for the time when she had breathlessly looked into passionate blue eyes, long ago.

There seemed to be little to say, as both young people carefully avoided the subject of war. "Perhaps you would like to see the garden," said Helene finally. "Do you know I spend all my time there, once it is warm enough for me to be out all the time?"

"I'll bring him back safely," she called back over her shoulder to the others. It sounded almost like the old carefree Helene. But Fate had so arranged things that no one there realized that Helene had crossed the threshold of her father's home for the last time.

DoYou Know That

French smugglers have lately invented another method of defrauding the customs authorities. This consists in packing tobacco in wrappers resembling potato skins, which are transported in ordinary sacks. The trick was discovered by accident, an inspector at a frontier station suspecting that the contents of the "potato sacks" were not what they purported to be; 14,000 worth of tobacco was discovered in the sacks.

The editor of a daily paper appearing at Gary, Ind., after attempting to satisfy the demands of his polyglot readers by publishing news in Italian, Czech, Croatian, Polish, Hungarian and English, was challenged by a three-cornered duel by two subscribers because he failed to print columns in Russian and Serb. Even in happy Indiana editors can't please everybody.

Twenty-six turkeys hatched at the same time by a turkey hen early in the spring on a farm near Llanelly (Wales) have all survived, and now weigh in the aggregate 60 pounds. The farmer claims this as a record single hatch in number and weight.

In Amsterdam firemen have little leisure time. Many of them are active workmen. Every station has its own workshop, where all repairs are done, and where motor cars are built. Amsterdam was one of the first cities to put motor apparatus into use in the fire brigade.

Three radishes weighing twenty pounds, one of which is eighteen inches long, have been grown in the garden of the village inn at Wittersham, Kent.

Their Married Life

HELEN REPROACHES HERSELF FOR LETTING NOVA LEAVE IN A FIT OF FOOLISH OBSTINACY

By MABEL HERBERT URNER

"EVERY well, I'll give you a reference, but you're acting very foolish."

"I—I told you when I came here that I couldn't do no scrubbing," sobbed Nora. "You said you'd get a woman for the house cleanin'."

"I said I'd get a woman once a year to clean the woodwork, but that's all." Helen's voice was coldly decisive. "I have the washing done for you, and the windows cleaned, and you're expected to do everything else. I told you that distinctly when you came."

"I can't do nothin' to please you any more," Nora sobbed on, "you're always findin' fault with somethin'."

"Now that's absurd, Nora. You've gotten so lately that you don't want me to tell you a thing—I can't even speak to you about your work."

"I do my work. I don't need nobody to be keepin' after me."

"That will do! I don't want any more discussion. In some ways you're a very good girl, but you're very difficult to get along with. You could never work in a place with other servants—you can't even get along with the laundress here."

"I can get along with anybody that treats me right," defiantly, "but nobody could get along with that woman."

"Now, never mind, Nora; I've put up with your quarrels with Mrs. O'Grady ever since you came. I've put up with other things, too, that no one else would put up with."

And cutting short Nora's tearful protests, Helen, her cheeks flushed angrily, went determinedly to her desk to write the reference.

"Nora Dolan has worked for me for over eight months, and I am glad to recommend her as a good plain cook, neat, economical, a fast worker and absolutely honest and trustworthy.

"MRS. W. E. CURTIS."

Helen considered. That was all she could say. After the scene this morning she could certainly not include a "good disposition."

The sound of Nora's heavy, defiant step, and Helen turned inquiringly.

"The vegetable cans, ma'am, but I haven't time to fix 'em," sullenly. "I'm not goin' to stay to get dinner."

"Very well, Nora; if you think that's the way to act, why, all right. Here's your reference. I'm not going to put up until the 20th, but I'll pay you up to-night."

Nora took the reference with a reluctant, ungracious "Thank you, ma'am," and stalked out.

Broodingly Helen made some scroll marks on the blotter before her. With a rush came the thought of Nora's many virtues, her loyalty, her economy, her interest in her work. Yet of late she had been most difficult, supersensitive and resentful of the slightest instruction.

Helen knew she had chosen an inopportune time to speak about the pantry shelves, for Nora had been unusually sulky that morning. Perhaps it was the Spring, the sudden, enervating warmth, for Helen, too, had felt decidedly out of humor.

At another time, and she asked her tactfully, Nora would have washed the shelves without a murmur, but this morning Helen had taken a perverse pleasure in not asking her tactfully, but in saying with sharp authority:

"Nora, those top pantry shelves are filthy—they're thick with dust. I want you to take down all those things today and wash them thoroughly."

Her quick temper bristled at Helen's tone. She had all the silver to clean. She couldn't get up to those shelves anyway—it made her dizzy. And that wasn't her work—that was "house cleaning."

And when Helen insisted that she wash those shelves today, Nora took a stand of sullen obstinacy which had culminated in open revolt.

The door bell rang again. Helen started up. Surely, Nora would answer it. A moment's wait, then a long, insistent ring. Helen went out to the kitchen; it was empty. Nora was in her own room, packing. She was deliberately refusing to answer the bell.

Helen bit her lip angrily as she went to the door. It was Mrs. Stevens.

"It's such a wonderful morning; can't you come for a ride? The car's downstairs."

"Oh, I'd love to ,but——" in a lowered tone as they went through the hall. "Nora's leaving—she's packing up now."

"Nora?" Mrs. Stevens sank into a chair. "Why, I thought she was such a paragon of virtue?"

"She was, but lately she's been getting difficult. I asked her to wash the pantry shelves this morning, and she flatly refused. She was really very ugly—so I had to let her go."

Mrs. Stevens shrugged her shoulders. "They're all alike."

Helen sighed. "I suppose so. Yet Nora did so much for me, brushed my clothes, mended the stockings—things I didn't ask of her because I wasn't her work. Oh, I'll never get any one who'll do those things."

"You may get some one very much better," consoled Mrs. Stevens.

"Well, I hope so." Then with an anxious note, "somehow I can't help feeling worried about her. She's so helpless, she doesn't know a thing about Boston. I don't know where she'll go when she leaves here."

"I thought she had an uncle?"

"He's gone back to Ireland; she's all alone. I couldn't even get her to take her afternoons off. She'd say she had no place to go. And now—I don't know what she'll do now."

"Well, there're plenty of people wanting maids. She can go to any employment agency and get a place by night."

"That's the trouble, she's so foolishly proud. I don't think she'd go to an agency. Nora's really superior in many ways. She's from a good North of Ireland family, her people are well off, too—oh, if only she wasn't so perverse—so absurdly obstinate."

"Well, once they take that attitude you can't do anything with them. You get dressed, and we'll drive right to an employment agency. There's a good agency I know of. Mrs. Dawson got a girl there last week."

While Helen was dressing Nora appeared at the door, carrying her suit case. She was all ready to go.

"Here's the key to the kitchen, Miesta Curtis. I'm goin' now."

"Where are you going, Nora? You don't know anything about Boston. Don't you want the address of a reliable employment agency?"

"I'm not going to none of them agencies," defiantly.

"Well, where are you going? How are you going to get a place?"

"I don't know, ma'am," with a choking sob.

As she turned to leave Pussy Purr-Mew trotted in and rubbed purringly against her skirt. Nora dropped the suitcase, took the kitten in her arms, buried her face in its fur and sobbed aloud.

"He good to pussy, ma'am," as she put down the kitten and wiped her eyes. "Make the new girl be good to pussy."

"Nora, are you sure you want to go?" Helen's voice was cordiality itself. "You have a good home here and you don't know where you're going. Don't you think you'd better take off your things and stay right here?"

For a moment Nora hesitated. She longed to stay; that was plain. But her tenacious obstinacy again possessed her.

"I'll stay, ma'am, but I won't scrub no high shelves for nobody! I ain't strong enough. I'd scarcely pay a woman out of my own wages!"

"Oh, you're hopeless, Nora!" Helen turned away impatiently. "You're hopeless! You may as well go. Here's your money up to tonight."

Later when Helen started out with Mrs. Stevens they stopped in Nora's room. Her trunk was locked and strapped, ready for the expressman.

"Why, she's left out some of her things." Mrs. Stevens nodded to some articles on the bureau.

With a feeling of mingled emotions Helen saw that they were the various trinkets she had given Nora from time to time—a purse, a fancy comb, a breast pin, a little work basket.

"That's like Nora—she wouldn't take a thing I'd ever given her."

"Well I'd call that insolence," declared Mrs. Stevens. "I always thought she was entirely too uppish and stylish for a girl in her

LATEST STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks had hopes of peace for a buoy today, and after opening at a higher level continued to ascend. Most traders believed that there will be a truce in hostilities with Mexico, if not some kind of a settlement which will obviate any immediate necessity of invasion by a United States army.

By afternoon in New York gains included Utah Copper 2½, Alaska Gold 2, Canadian Pacific 2½, Southern Pacific 1⅜, Reading 2, Lehigh Valley 2⅜, New Haven 2, American Can 1, Steel 1⅛, Amalgamated 1¼, American Smelting 2¼, Northern Pacific 2, Baltimore & Ohio 1⅛, Union Pacific 1, New York Central 1 and Mexican Petroleum 4. Missouri Pacific was off 1⅜.

In Boston among advances were U. S. Smelting ¾, Greene-Cananea ¾, Alaska Gold ½, Wolverine 1, Hancock 3⅜, North Butte 1¼, Granby 1, Calumet & Arizona 1⅜, Butte & Superior ⅝, Osceola ¾, New Haven 1¼ and American Telephone ¼. Boston & Maine unchanged, having recovered its early loss.

STOCKS ON THE RISE.

When the New York market opened the upward movement, which featured the stocks yesterday, was renewed and prices were higher at the start and continued to climb. Bears made free offerings at the opening of each new movement, but pressure of this kind was of little avail. The market absorbed stocks easily and recessions which occurred within a few minutes after the opening were not of long duration. Another rally was speedily in order and trading was brisk throughout the morning, transactions for that period amounting to nearly 228,000 shares.

The issues of corporations having large property interests in Mexico were carefully watched. As a rule they had support enough to indicate that the belief is growing that war between this country and its Aztec neighbor will be averted, for a while at least.

LONDON MORE HOPEFUL.

Cable advices were to the effect that Europeans are more hopeful of peace being established, although there is doubt abroad that it will last long. In fact on the other side of the Atlantic it appears to be generally thought that there will be no stable government in Mexico until the United States intervenes and occupies that country, temporarily at least. Prior to the New York opening Americans averaged higher in London. Gains were small, but the majority of internationals were higher, while Canadian Pacific has climbed three points. Further amalgament on the Paris bourse was said to be due to improvement in the American situation. The Ulster outlook is said to have become more serious, but this view did not weaken the London market. It is said that there is an strict a blockade against munitions of war on the northern coast of Ireland as exists off Vera Cruz.

COPPER ISSUES ADVANCED.

Copper issues were higher, both in New York and Boston, although it is reported that important producers are offering electrolytic at 14¼ cents a pound. Hitherto the usual price of leaders has been 14⅝. Price cutting indicates that demand is negligible. The chief producers are trying hard to ascertain at what level they can obtain a market. In New York during the morning Utah Copper made a large gain, and in Boston the best included those by Calumet & Arizona, Mohawk, North Butte and Tamarack. The local market had firmness and breadth.

MISSOURI PACIFIC WAS WEAK.

One of the morning features in New Yor was the decline of Missouri Pacific to 16⅛. This was a new low record. The recession was due to the operations of bears, who were searching for weak spots in the hope of generally affecting the list. The retrogression in this issue had no influence upon the market and before long it made a partial recovery.

By midday leading issues there averaged a point or more higher, but most of the business was of the small-let variety. Steel was strong from the start, although traders still expect an unfavorable report as to its earnings for the first quarter of the year. Mexican Petroleum attained a conspicuous advance. Its prize movement was not as spectacular today as yesterday, but during this morning there was considerable fluctuation as to its gains. Southern Pacific opened higher and its upward trend continued. Alaska Gold was one of the climbers.

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

The Connecticut Company, a trolley subsidiary of the New Haven system, with 673 miles of road and 4,000 employes, announces through President L. S. Storrs it has become a completely independent corporation, with $40,000,000 in capital held by eight stockholders.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has turned over to bankers its $7,653,850 Southern Pacific convertible 4s, per cent bonds, the pro rata share of $53,000,000 recently offered to Southern Pacific shareholders.

Copper warrants weakened in the London market today and by noon spot was off 12s. 6d. and futures 8s. 9d. At the close both were 3s. 9d. higher.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

A mistaken idea seems to exist in some parts of the country, regarding the great Lincoln Memorial Highway which stretches from New York to San Francisco, a distance of thirty-four hundred miles and is rapidly being improved through the efforts of the Lincoln Highway Association.

The fallacy, which has in some sections taken a strong hold upon the people's minds, is, that the Lincoln Highway is being built largely for the so-called joy riders and junion which it will be possible to "hit it up" to fifty or sixty miles an hour across long stretches of country without interference. This idea is shown to be ridiculous. The investment of twenty-five million dollars in thirty-four hundred miles of hard surfaced, drained, graded and straightened road for the enjoyment of a few speed demons is to ridiculous to be given a moment's thought.

Mitchell May, New York Secretary of State, having charge of the registration of motor cars and the licensing of operators, has received over a million dollars in registration fees since the first of February. The total amount received was $1,008,59.25, as against $891,472.80 collected in that period of a year ago.

BIG WELCOME FOR GOV. GLYNN IN THE HOUSE

Governor Glynn of New York was given a hearty reception by the House of Representatives this afternoon when he was presented for a brief address by Speaker Cushing. Escorted by Sergeant-at Arms Pedrick, Representatives Cox, Tague and Washburn, Governor Glynn entered the chamber through the centre door, which is only opened for the Chief Executive and visiting Governors when he has a message to deliver personally, and walked down the centre aisle to the Speaker's rostrum.

Governor Glynn referred to his visit to Massachusetts by saying he was here to visit the home of his wife's parents in Lynn.

"My better self is a Massachusetts woman," said Governor Glynn, "and I feel that I am almost a Massachusetts man myself. I have always been impressed by the wise legislation passed by the Legislature of this State. When I became Governor of New York my first act was to frame a law patterned after your Workmen's Compensation Act. You blazed the way in that kind of legislation."

Here he referred to the workings of the New York Legislature, after which he left the chamber to attend a dinner given in his honor.

After Huerta, What? Will Mr. Wilson Please Consider This Vital Problem?

The swiftly changing phases of the effort to check or avert the inevitable war with Mexico by some vague and ill-defined plan of "mediation" enmesh the whole proposition in perplexity and uncertainty.

Probably nothing will come of it. The plan so illogical, so utterly out of tune with the professed attitude of the Wilson administration toward Huerta, and so utterly incompatible with the position that the Mexican dictator consistently maintained that for it progress beyond the stage of discussion seems unlikely.

But suppose it did so progress, setting aside any questions of the motives of the "A. B. C." governments in proposing mediation, any discussion of the wisdom of the Wilson-Bryan government in so precipitately accepting it or any question of its ultimate acceptance by Huerta, let us consider what must be its final result.

According to the repeated declarations of President Wilson, the one point upon which there is to be no argument, no discussion of the part of the verdict determined upon before the court is created, is expressed in the administration's watchword:

"Huerta must go."

Without such a predetermined verdict the United States will not participate in the mediation proceedings.

BUT IN WHAT POSITION WILL THE UNITED STATES AND MEXICO BE WHEN THE COMMISSION HAS REACHED SUCH A CONCLUSION AND HUERTA HAS SUBMITTED TO HIS OWN DEPOSITION?

In the thirteen months of the Wilson-Watchful-Waiting Huerta has shown himself to be the nearest approach to a force for law and order that Mexico possessed. Stubborn, autocratic, violent, bloodthirsty as he is, he has yet done more to protect foreigners, including Americans, in the territory he controlled than have the brigand leaders warring on him with whom the United States has been trafficking for his undoing.

Go back to the Tampico incident and the withheld salute which President Wilson sought to make our sole complaint against Huerta and you will find the record of insult to the American flag, of violations of American women and of the murders of Americans of both sexes and all ages blacker and more execrable in the territory controlled by Carranza and Villa—now our diplomatic allies—than in that upon which Huerta enforced at least a semblance of civilized order.

But "Huerta must go."

Suppose he goes. What then? The axiom" Nature abhors a vacuum" is as true in politics as in physics. Huerta's place will not remain vacant.

Who so ready to rush in to fill it as Villa and Carranza, already made powerful by the countenance of the United States government and the ready supply of machine guns and rifles made in our workshops?

That would be the obvious, the inevitable, result of the elimination of Huerta by the method of mediation. It could only be averted by the maintenance in power of some other Mexican recommended by the mediating body who would find the support of American guns and men necessary to his continuance in power. There can be no possible third result. Either the elevation to power of Carranza or Villa—probably the latter—or a President selected by forces wholly exterior to Mexico and supported by our army against the attacks of the present Constitutionalist leaders.

How do the American people like the choice? How would either alternative leave us in better state than we are today?

Since it began its course of mishandling the Mexican situation the Wilson administration has been consistent in only one thing. It has never deviated a hair's breadth from its habit of taking the immediate step without considering of the next.

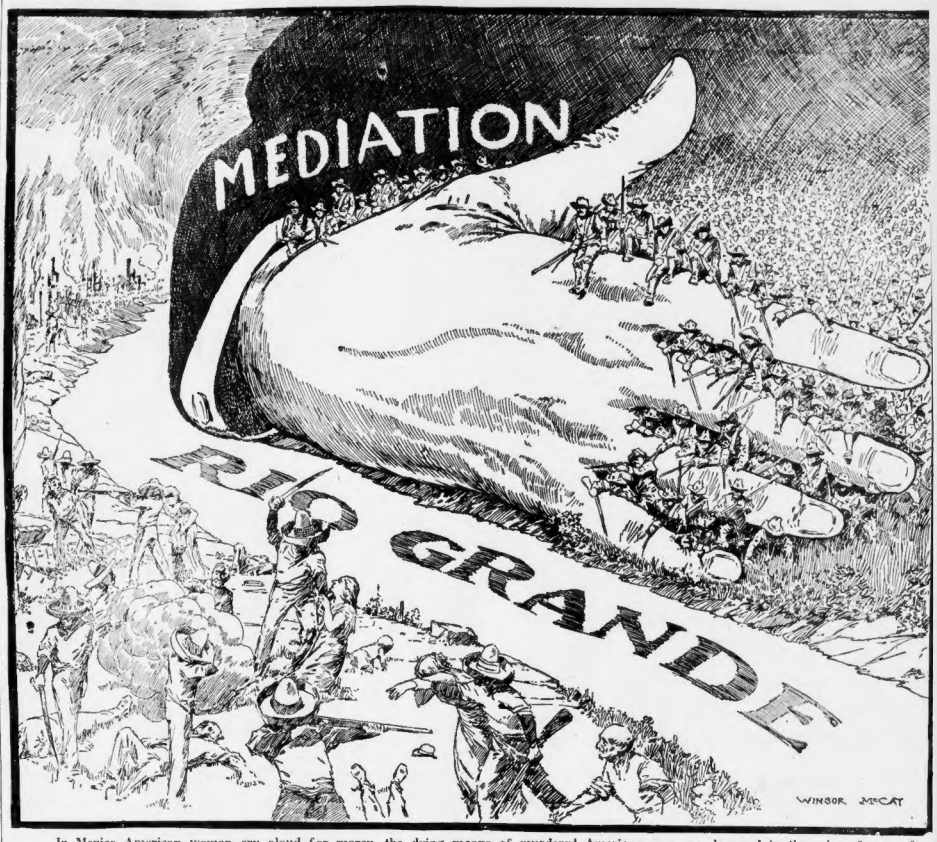
It refused recognition to Huerta and laid the foundation of its tottering edifice of disastrous diplomacy. It raised the embargo on arms for the Constitutionalists and thereby equipped armies which presently we shall have to fight.

It landed determinedly at Vera Cruz and ever since has hesitated trembling before taking the next obvious step.

Now it precipitately agrees to a mediation proposed by not wholly disinterested nations. We beg of the administration to set aside its policy of never looking ahead and consider the question, AFTER HUERTA, WHAT?

MURDER PROTECTED; RESCUE RESTRAINED!

Copyright, 1914, by International News Service



In Mexico American women cry aloud for mercy, the dying moans of murdered American men are drowned in the cries of rage of savages, whose lust for destruction, rapine and murder is glutted, while the hand of authority at Washington holds back the thousands of patriotic Americans eager to rush to the rescue. "Mediation," they call the new policy at Washington; outrage and murder is what it means in Mexico.

Man. An Invocation

By ELBERT HUBBARD

My heart goes out to you, O Man, because I cannot conceive of any being greater, nobler, more heroic, more tenderly loving, loyal, unselfish and enduring than are you.

All the love I know is Man's love. All the forgiveness I know is Man's forgiveness. All the sympathy I know is Man's sympathy. And hence I address myself to Man—to you—and you would I serve.

The fact that you are a human being brings you near to me—it is the bond that unites us.

I understand you because you are a part of myself.

You may like me or not—it makes no difference; if ever you need my help, I am with you.

Often we can help each other most by leaving each other alone; at other times we need the hand grasp and the word of cheer. I am only a man—a mere man—but in times of loneliness think of me as one who loves his kind.

What your condition is in life will not prejudice me either for or against you. What you have done or not done will not weigh in the scale.

If you have been wise and prudent, I congratulate you, unless you are unable to forget how wise and good you are; then I pity you.

If you have stumbled and fallen and been cast into the mud, and have failed to be a friend to yourself, then you of all people need friendship. I am the friend of convicts, insane people and fools—successful and unsuccessful, college-bred and illiterate.

You all belong to my church. I could not exclude you if I would.

The Spirit of Love that flows through me, and of which I am a part, is your portion, too. The race is one and we trace to a common Divine ancestry.

I offer you no reward for being loyal to me, and surely I do not threaten you with pain, penalty and dire ill fortune if you are indifferent to me.

You cannot win me by praise or adulation. You cannot shut my heart toward you, even though you revile me.

Only the good can reach me, and no thought of love you send me can be lost or missent.

All the kindness you feel for me should be given to those nearest you, and it shall all be passed to your thoughts, and no error can occur in the count.

Always and forever my friendship shall follow you, yet never intrude.

I do not ask you to incur obligations or make promises. There are no rules. I do not demand that you shall do this and not do that. I issue no commands.

I cannot lighten your burdens, and perhaps I should not even if I will show you how to acquire strength to meet all your difficulties and face the duties of the day.

It is not for me to take charge of your life, for surely I do well if I look after one person—myself.

If you err, it is not for me to punish you. We are punished by our sins, not for them.

Soon or late I know you will see that to do right brings good and to do wrong brings misery, but you will abide in Nature's Law, and all good things will be yours. I cannot change these laws—I cannot make you exempt from your own blunders and mistakes.

And you cannot change the Eternal Laws for me, even though you die for me.

But perhaps I can point you the pathway that leads to Love, Truth and Usefulness, and this I want to do.

And then, by pointing you the way, I will find it myself.

When a Man's Wealthy His Trouble Begins

After what has happened to Jeff Tesreau and Caruso, both of whom are defending breach of promise suits, a lot of us have withdrawn our applications for a raise in pay.

As We Might Have Predicted

Mr. Carnegie has transferred his sympathy from Great Britain to Mexico.

Take Your Choice

If you were in Mexico would you rather be murdered by Villaistas, Caranzaistas, Zapatistas or Huertaistas?

The Right Job

If the Administration is embarrassed, as obviously it is, by Mr. Bryan's refusal to resign, why not create a Department of Apology and make him its secretary?

Method in It

Mr. Villa's love and affection is very much like the love and affection expressed in the wagging tail of the dog caught with a stolen beefsteak.

His Only Hope

Cole Blease would better conclude his long series of pardons by pardoning himself. Nobody else ever will.

Not Returnable

"Have no fear" is the message to America of one of the Mexican leaders. Unfortunately, we cannot repeat the same message in reply.

Worse Than Wine, Beer or Spirituous Liquors

With his well known prejudice against stimulants, Mr. Daniels must view the war spirit in the navy with vast alarm.

Ubiquitous

The sun never sets on the innocent bystander.

The Two Sisters

By VIRGINIA TERHUNE VAN DE WATER

CHAPTER LVI.

THERE was a look of triumph on Ben Hadley's handsome face as Caryl Marvin acknowledged her hope of future meetings with him.

"Fine!" he ejaculated, releasing her hands. "Now see what you think of my plan. Since your sister thinks the friend with whom you are going out just now is a fellow with a sister, we must think of some girl whom Somerdyke knows and of whom Delaine has probably heard. I know such a girl."

"Who is she?" Caryl queried.

"She is a Dora Redfield," Hadley said, dropping his voice. "I met her only this afternoon with Somerdyke, and as I stopped and spoke to them Harry had to introduce me. From what I hear, he's paying her very serious attention just now. To tell the truth, I wouldn't wonder if they're already engaged."

"Is she tall and slender, with big brown eyes and a smiling kind of a mouth?" Caryl asked quickly.

"She's all those things and then some!" the man replied. "How did you know?"

"I've met her," said Caryl briefly. A wave of resentment swept over her, but she did not let the man suspect what was passing through her mind. He thought this girl pretty, too, did he? Well, she should not catch him as she had caught Somerdyke—not if Caryl Marvin could hold him!

"Do you really know her?" she heard Hadley asking, a note of surprise in his voice, a note that would have piqued a prouder girl than Caryl.

"I did not say that I knew her," she corrected him, rather tartly—only that I had met her."

"Oh, I see," rejoined Hadley. "Well, what I was about to say is that I happen to know that this Miss Redfield has a brother, and that it was through him that Somerdyke became acquainted with this girl. The point is that Delaine probably knows that this girl has a brother, since Somerdyke must have spoken of him. Now, why not tell your sister that John Redfield and his sister are asking you here, there and everywhere?"

"But," Caryl hesitated, "suppose she finds out that they are not?"

"How could she find out?" Hadley evaded. "Were she to ask Delaine, he could say truly that he does not know these people personally, but that he is aware that Somerdyke has friends of that name—swells at that. His assurance as to their good standing will satisfy your sister."

"Yes"—the girl still hesitated—"but if Mr. Delaine should happen to ask Mr. Somerdyke——"

"That's not likely," Hadley interrupted. "One man doesn't ask another man about the girl the other fellow is paying especial attention to—at least men like Delaine don't. If he's like what he was years ago, he's rather strict in his notions of minding his own business. Besides, he doesn't see Harry as often as he did. Harry's busy making love and getting ready to go away."

"Is he going away?" asked Caryl, astonished.

"Sure he is, going down to South America again, so has no time to waste on Delaine just now. I'm to join him there later, but I'm not starting as soon as he is."

There was a long pause before he spoke again, his voice once more low and confidential.

"You see, as I am going before long, I want to know you well, want to have you learn to care as much for me as I do for you before I leave. That is the reason we must throw your sister off the scent, and let her believe the story we've planned. If not, she may make our meetings hard—perhaps almost impossible."

"I see," agreed Caryl. Her thoughts were a curious medley of resentment against Harry Somerdyke and the girl he loved, triumph at Hadley's evident affection for herself, and wild hopes of a speedy engagement and marriage. There was one more point on which she wanted to be sure.

"You must have lots of money," she ventured, "to travel about the world as you like. It seems wonderful to a girl who has to work for her living."

The man laughed in a satisfied way. "Yes," he acknowledged, "I guess that old wolf we hear about won't get very near my door. But, child, I work, too—sometimes. My profession is that of a mining engineer. That's one reason I'm going down to South America. Somerdyke says there's a big job there for me just now. Not that I want the money especially—for I have all that I really need. But," with another laugh, "I'd not object to having more than I need. Then I shall travel and do as I please for the rest of my days."

The girl's head swam for a moment. She had a mental picture of her mean room in a cheap lodging-house, of her poor and scanty wardrobe, of the plain fare that she and her sister ate—above all of the dull monotony of daily work. How she hated work! And this man had all the money he needed, and expected soon to have so much that he could do as he pleased all the rest of his days! She almost laughed aloud in hysterical excitement as she thought what marriage to him would mean—travel, handsome clothes, a beautiful place to live in, absolute freedom from drudgery. She sprang to her feet suddenly in order to conceal her joyous agitation.

"I must be going!" she exclaimed. "I want to get home by 6 o'clock—before Julia returns."

The man glanced at his watch. "Come on, then," he said. "You can get there easily on time if I run find a taxicab out here in front."

"Oh, that's not necessary," Caryl began, but he checked her.

"Do you suppose I'd let you walk, dear?" he asked reprovingly.

Five minutes later, when he had put her into a cab, paid the driver in advance and she was on her way home, she leaned back with a long breath of content.

"This is the way it will always be when I am married to him!" she whispered.

More Truth Than Poetry

Keeping a Memory Green

Al Jennings says he wants to forget the days when he was a train robber, but since he is reheraing for a movie picture of his past exploits it is clear that he doesn't intend to let anybody else forget it.

No Cause for Petulance.

Mr. Taft is beginning to discover that when his country refused him the Presidency it exercised all the tender solicitude of a parent denying a child a second helping of mince pie.

It was not Like this in the Olden Days

One who was observing things during the Spanish War would never suspect that in the present crisis a man named Roosevelt is Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Is England Insatiable?

The President will now take up the drainage problem, which will enable him to dispose of a few more canals.

Bright Pupil

Mr. Taft says he has learned to be content. Most of the voters in the country acted as his instructors.

A Real Philanthropist

The music teacher who insisted that children with an $878 estate required a $250 piano would probably be willing to teach them how to play it for the other $628.
